The dead are George Atwood, Concord, engineer; Ralph Ching, Manchester, fireman; Edward Kelley, Manchester, brakeman.

Five men in the caboose were saved by the breaking of a coupling in the middle of the train.

ALBERT ANDERSON
DIES SUDDENLY

Albert Anderson, aged 55 years, a resident of this city for the past 35 years, died last evening at St. John's hospital.

Anderson, who for the past three years had occupied a room at 511 Bridge street, was found in an unconscious condition in his room at about 6 o'clock last evening. The ambulance was summoned and the man removed to the hospital, where he died shortly after his arrival.

It was learned today that Mr. Anderson, who was employed as an elevator man at the Massachusetts mill, was taken ill about a week ago and that since then he had been in the home of his daughter, Mrs. Alfred Sayre, in Everett street, and spent a few days there. He then returned to his room and on Monday evening he was visited by Mrs. Sayre, who at that time did not think his condition very serious. On Tuesday night another daughter, Miss Ida Anderson, paid him a visit and last night when Mrs. Sayre returned to her father's room she found that he had been taken to the hospital.

CITY MAKES OFFER OF $20,000 FOR THE FIRST STREET OVAL

Tentative Offer for Purchase of Oval From Locks & Canals Co. Is Made Through Park Commissioners---Company Prefers
Seizure Proceedings by the City as Method of Acquirement

The city of Lowell, through the board of park commissioners, today made a tentative offer to the Locks and Canals Co. of $20,000 for the purchase of the first street oval and adjacent land between Read and Llewellyn streets.

Following a conference at 10 o'clock between the mayor, members of the park commission and Arthur T. Safford, chief engineer of the Locks and Canals, at which the mayor suggested that a tentative offer of $20,000 be made, the park board held a special meeting and voted to instruct the superintendent to make the offer in writing to the Locks and Canals.

It is now understood that a loan order for $20,000 will be introduced into the city council at the special meeting to be held tomorrow night. The order will be in anticipation of acceptance of the offer on the part of the owners of the land. Such an order is necessary before the park commissioners can make an absolute offer as to the price of purchase.

If the city eventually purchases the land, the Locks and Canals will retain a 50-foot strip along the river bank, in keeping with its river rights. There is a 60-foot strip running through the land throughout its length that the Locks and Canals has granted the city without cost for the purpose of a boulevard.

It cannot be anticipated what action the Locks and Canals will take on the tentative offer of $20,000, as Engineer Safford said that he will have to take it up with the officers of the company for their consideration. It is well known that the company has looked with favor upon seizure proceedings by the city as a method of acquirement and as such a scheme would net the company several thousands of dollars more than acceptance of the tentative offer, considerable discussion may transpire before definite word is received.

High Water Records for the Connecticut River Valley

Government Flood Warning
Received at Springfield
This Morning

SPRINGFIELD, April 12.—With high water records for the last nine years broken in the upper reaches of the Connecticut river, government flood warning was received here today saying that heavy rains north had swollen the river nearly to the 27-foot stage at White River Junction, Vt., and predicting a "big freshet." At Bellows Falls, Vt., today, the river had risen three feet since last night, and a further rise of eight inches, it was said, would flood a tunnel on the Boston & Maine lines and force a detour of train service. Trolley service between Northampton and Holyoke is cut off by the flooding of the highway. In this city the river stood more than 17 feet above low water, which is higher than the 1920 mark when the steel bridge at Brattleboro, Vt., was swept away.

Melting Snows Up-Country
Have Greatly Increased
Volume of Water

Merrimack Assumes Freshet
But Not Flood Proportions
—Concord River Normal

Like all other New England streams, the Merrimack river is flowing on toward the ocean at spring freshet proportions and today locally stood at the highest point this year, with 35,640 cubic feet of water per second spilling over the Pawtucket dam. The crest of the water is 6 1/2 feet over the dam, showing a rise of approximately 1/2 a foot in the last 24 hours.

Melting snows up-country have sent a greatly increased volume of water down the New Hampshire hills in the last day or two and the river still continues to rise slowly.

The river is not at flood and the Locks and Canals have no fear until MONTREAL, April 12.—Severe cross-examination awaited the full blooded Indian, Louis Beauvais, father of the guide, Fred Beauvais, when trial of the Stillman divorce case was resumed here today.

Yesterday the Indian parents defended their son and Mrs. Anne U. Stillman against the charges of misconduct made by James A. Stillman, who alleged in suing for divorce that they had misbehaved in the Quebec woods and that Fred Beauvais was the father of little Guy Stillman.

By their testimony, Fred's father and mother sought to show it would

CAUSE NOT DETERMINED

Death of Man Found Unconscious in Cellar of Home,
Still Veiled in Mystery

John J. Griffin, of 89 Aiken avenue, who was found in an unconscious condition in the cellar of his home on Monday, after a disappearance that extended back to last Saturday noon, died last night at St. John's hospital without regaining consciousness.

Police and attending physicians still are at a loss to determine a cause and until the medical examiner submits his report the circumstances surrounding the finding of the man and his death will be more or less veiled in mystery. Friends believe he suffered a shock.

The body has been removed to the rooms of Undertakers James F. O'Donnell & Sons and efforts will be made to locate the man's sister and brother. It is believed that a sister, Miss Annie Griffin, is a nurse either in or near Boston, while it is said that there is a brother, Patrick, living somewhere in Maine.

Griffin, who was employed at the Merrimack Woolen Co. in Collinsville, lived alone at 89 Aiken avenue. He was seen entering the house on Saturday noon, last, but was not seen again until neighbors found him Monday evening, lying at the foot of his cellar stairs. They were prompted to search for him when the suspicions of a milkman had been aroused.

Dr. T. B. Smith, medical examiner, viewed the body this forenoon, but at 1.30 o'clock had not signed the death return.

COUNCIL MAY ACT ON MULRY NOMINATION

A call was issued today for a special meeting of the city council tomorrow, Thursday, evening at 8 o'clock, presumably for the purpose of attempting to take some action on the mayor's nomination of Edward F. Mulry as superintendent of charities.

In the natural course of events the nomination would have died a natural death before the next regular council meeting, for it was first presented to the council on March 16 and the 30-day period would expire before the regular meeting on the 19th, which is the third Thursday of the month.

Five Cars of Sleepers De-
Near Danbury, Vt.

BURLINGTON, Vt., April 12.—Five cars of the New York sleeper leaving here at 11.05 last night were derailed near Danbury, south of Rutland, shortly after midnight. None of the passengers was injured, although many received a bad shaking up. The sleeping coaches, or which there were three, stayed on the rails.

The accident was caused by the heavy rainstorm of yesterday afternoon and evening. The tracks where the accident happened were covered with water to a depth of over two inches. As the track runs along the Otter creek in this section it is considered by officials to have been miraculous that the derailed cars escaped going into the river.

Strenuous efforts are being made to repair the damage but train service south of Rutland is tied up and it is not known when the first train over the road will be run.

JOHNSON FLAYS SEC. WEEKS

Says Favored Men Get Surplus Property at "Criminally Low Prices"

WASHINGTON, April 12.—Charges that the war department "has sold property and is today selling property at ridiculously and criminally low prices to favored customers, concealing from congress and deliberately misrepresenting the facts," were made in the house yesterday by Representative Johnson, republican, South Dakota.

Mr. Johnson also gave the first public indication that President Harding acted on definite evidence in his recent dismissal of upwards of 30 bureau of engraving officials. He referred incidentally to "evidence" furnished by himself and other members of congress to justify the dismissal order.

Mr. Johnson's statement, upon which he would not enlarge, was made during debate on a resolution asking for investigation of war contracts.

"If the chief executive does not act as he did with the bureau of engraving," he said, "when a few members of congress, including myself, presented the evidence to justify his recent action, public sentiment will demand passage of the resolution."

Charges Report Deceitful

As "proof of the fact that the war department is misrepresenting the facts to congress," Mr. Johnson charged that a report by Secretary Weeks relative to sales of property, transmitted to the house last December was "the most fraudulent, misleading and criminally deceitful document that was ever submitted to the American congress."

Mr. Johnson declared the evidence he had obtained showed that the war department is trying to control the department of justice in putting men who ought to be in the penitentiary on the department of justice payroll and asking congress to appropriate for it.

"A review of Secretary Weeks' report shows how little he actually knows of the true facts," continued Mr. Johnson. "Only a few of the thousands of false entries indicating fraudulent transactions with many favored and 'inside' purchasers, will suffice to show the extent of the official depravity and duplicity exercised in defrauding the government, which has been gone on without restraint since the inception of the liquidation process."

To Favored Purchasers

"Millions of dollars' worth of supplies were sold to each of a number of favored purchasers by 'negotiations' without competitive bidding, without adequate bonds or deposits to protect the government's interests. Indefinite extensions of time granted for storage and delivery, and finally, cancellations effected to meet the convenience of these specially favored sets of grafters."

Recalling evidence developed by the Graham investigating committee, Mr. Johnson said those "who knew crimes had been committed in the name of the government" felt that with the advent of a republican administration "it would be easy to initiate a further investigation." Accordingly, he said, Chairman Graham, the day after the inauguration of President Harding wrote Secretary Weeks asking that the committee be continued.

"To the letter," he said, "the secretary of war replied, 'that the day of investigation has passed.'"

"Here we have the spectacle," Mr. Johnson continued, "of the secretary of war—who is holding his position today largely because of the resentment of the soldiers of the late war who knew they had suffered unnecessarily, and citizens who knew there had been graft and extravagance—taking the attitude that the time for examination has expired and refusing to co-operate with congress in developing the facts which we knew were in existence."

Responsibility First on Weeks

"The responsibility must first rest upon the secretary of war and his assistants; second, upon the chief of staff and his assistants; and third, upon the bureau chiefs directly responsible. If the first two classes named say they do not know of these things this ought to be sufficient notice served upon them so that they will know of them and it, upon securing that knowledge, there are not whole-sale courts-martial in the military service, then I say without hesitation that the entire war department from head to foot is incurably corrupt."

"My own judgment is that it cannot be said that the chiefs are not aware of these conditions, because the testimony shows that every one in the war department from top to bottom is trying to keep evidence from congress, the public and the department of justice."

STUDYING NEW TARIFF BILL

Senators Preparing for Long Days of Controversy Over Measure

Chairman Fordney Says House Will Never Yield on American Valuation

WASHINGTON, April 12.—The declaration by Chairman Fordney, of the house ways and means committee, that the house never would yield on American valuation, has revived discussion of that tariff question at the capitol with opponents and proponents estimating their possible strength when the bill gets to conference between the senate and house.

Chairman Fordney is of the opinion that the conferees will attach American valuation but Senator Smoot of Utah, ranking republican on the senate finance committee, does not subscribe to this view. As the situation now stands, it would appear that the conferees would be at least seven to three against the proposition.

Senator Smoot, who made the fight for foreign valuation before the senate committee majority, says he will not vote for American valuation in the conference or anywhere else. Senator La Follette, of Wisconsin, the second ranking republican on the finance committee, voted against this valuation in the committee. Representative Green of Iowa, ranking republican on the ways and means committee, says he never has been very favorable to the principle and the four democratic conferees, two from the house and two from the senate are counted against it.

Chairman Fordney is outspoken for American valuation. Chairman McCumber of the senate committee, and Representative Longworth of Ohio, the other two conferees, have made no statement as to their position since the senate committee majority definitely adopted foreign valuation.

Senators generally were studying today the new tariff bill as reported yesterday to the senate in preparation for the long days of controversy that are ahead on the senate floor. Several amendments to rates in the bill already have been offered from the republican side, while democratic leaders are preparing to make a general assault on many of the rates. Democrats on the finance committee have been given 10 days in which to file their minority report.

HENRY CLARK NAMED G. A. R. COMMANDER

BOSTON, April 12.—Henry Clark of Post 35, Arlington, was chosen department commander of the Massachusetts department, G. A. R., at the 26th annual state encampment yesterday. Other officers elected were George W. Pratt of Stoughton, senior vice commander, and Benjamin A. Ham of Post 2, junior vice commander. Past Commander John M. Woods was unanimously endorsed for the post of national commander.

A resolution was passed asking the United States senate to increase pensions while Civil war veterans were still alive.

LEVIATHAN NOW "PRESIDENT HARDING"

WASHINGTON, April 12.—The steamship Leviathan, long being reconditioned by the shipping board at Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock plant, has been renamed the "President Harding," Chairman Lasker announced yesterday.

This name was selected among the presidents. Mr. Lasker said, at the urging of Commissioners Thompson and Chamberlain.

Tentative selections of American presidents' names for the rest of the passenger fleet has been made. Mr. Lasker said, but the names are now being checked up with the navy and Lloyd's Register to see if there is any conflict.

Wisconsin farmers own 1041 motor trucks, and the officers who have been trying to sustain the constitution and statutes have either been pushed from the service or shipped to foreign lands.

Illustrating some of the war department's bargains, Mr. Johnson declared the department had sold one lot of 12,000 pounds of candy worth $14,000 to a Washington dealer on an "informal bid" for $225.

"This lot of candy was graded as in good condition," he said. "There was enough to fill six car loads, all high grade and it was sold at the rate of two mills a pound. The sale was made by the same officers that the secretary of war still retains to sell surplus property."

LOWELL PUBLIC MARKET

Building Remodeled and Restocked — Mr. Willis is Heartily Congratulated

The Lowell Public Market reopened today, having been remodeled and restocked completely. The equipment of the entire place is new and comprises the latest in market fittings—ammonia pipe refrigeration for all of the new marble counters, sanitary appliances second to none, faultless scales for weighing all sales, and in fact nothing but the best throughout.

The public was pleased with the new store—for such it is. Charles F. Willis, the proprietor, was congratulated so often and so heartily, that his face wore a wide smile of satisfaction.

The store was wiped out by fire on the night of Dec. 22, when it was heavily stocked with Christmas provisions. Since then, the place has been virtually rebuilt from the basement up. Everything about the place is fireproof. The store is enlarged and Mr. Willis' old customers noted this, as well as the other improvements, with pleasure. Every resource Mr. Willis could obtain was utilized in fitting up the place.

The location of the store at Merrimack Square is ideal. Mr. Willis has leased the adjoining store in Prescott street, and thus the new quarters have a floor space of about 10,000 square feet. The market's offices are located on a balcony in the rear of and overlooking the store's main floor. All of the counters are tiled and glass-protected, with ammonia pipes for refrigerating the contents of the counters. There are counters of this nature for fish, meat, groceries, fruit, vegetables, candies, pickles, butter and cheese. At each counter there is a new set of weighing scales.

Lighting and ventilation are provided in the most approved manner. There are now three entrances to the store. All of the fittings are fireproof, and the store is in the basement are commodious and sanitary. Mr. Willis' old customers were delighted with the remodeled place.

The public was pleased with the new store—for such it is. Charles F. Willis, the proprietor, was congratulated so often and so heartily, that his face wore a wide smile of satisfaction.

The store was wiped out by fire on the night of Dec. 22, when it was heavily stocked with Christmas provisions. Since then, the place has been virtually rebuilt from the basement up. Everything about the place is fireproof. The store is enlarged and Mr. Willis' old customers noted this, as well as the other improvements, with pleasure. Every resource Mr. Willis could obtain was utilized in fitting up the place.

The location of the store at Merrimack Square is ideal. Mr. Willis has leased the adjoining store in Prescott street, and thus the new quarters have a floor space of about 10,000 square feet. The market's offices are located on a balcony in the rear of and overlooking the store's main floor. All of the counters are tiled and glass-protected, with ammonia pipes for refrigerating the contents of the counters. There are counters of this nature for fish, meat, groceries, fruit, vegetables, candies, pickles, butter and cheese. At each counter there is a new set of weighing scales.

Lighting and ventilation are provided in the most approved manner. There are now three entrances to the store. All of the fittings are fireproof, and the store is in the basement are commodious and sanitary. Mr. Willis' old customers were delighted with the remodeled place.

Spring is a serious season for "sweet sixteen"—and the other "teens"

Young people plunge into the outdoor pleasures of spring with all the strength they have—and lose their health in doing it.

The confinement in school, the "home work" and the heavy eating of winter leave the organs of our boys and girls overloaded with poisonous waste that should have been carried off through the digestive tract, the pores, and in other ways. Violent exercise in the warm days of spring helps to send this poison through the blood into the entire system. This is followed by headache and many other aches, boils and pimples, constipation, dizziness, fever and then a general break down. This is a mighty serious matter for those who are passing through the change from childhood to manhood and womanhood.

The systems of your children should have a thorough, yet gentle, cleansing every spring

McMAHON SCORES PAWTUCKET MILL

Says Failure of Jenckes Co. to Negotiate With Workers Brought Bloodshed

Refusal to Treat With Employees Not Due to Pressing Needs of Business

Declares Company Made Profits of Over $10,000,000 in Five Years

PAWTUCKET, R. I., April 12.—The Jenckes Spinning company, one of the few cotton plants in Rhode Island that has been able to survive the strike against lower wages and increased hours, was the subject of a statement today by President Thomas F. McMahon, of the United Textile Workers of America. He said the concern has trebled in value in the past five years. "This strike in Pawtucket has taken its toll of human life," the statement said. "Had the Jenckes Spinning company been willing to negotiate with the textile workers here, on the basis of fair treatment for the company and fair treatment for the workers, there would have been no bloodshed in the Pawtucket strike; there might even have been no Pawtucket strike. "Is the refusal of the Jenckes company to negotiate with workers or to arbitrate the difference, due to the pressing needs of the business? Hardly. "In the five years between July 1, 1916, and July 1, 1921, the Jenckes Spinning company made total profits well over $10,000,000. "During this five years the profits averaged 77 per cent a year on the full face value of the common stock in addition to the fixed rate of 7 per cent which was paid on the preferred stock. "During this five year period, the company has paid two stock dividends, one of 20 per cent in 1917, and one of 20 per cent in 1920. The first made a gift of $200,000 stock to the stockholders, raising the common stock from $1,500,000 to $1,800,000. In 1920, another gift of shares was made to stockholders, raising the common stock from $1,800,000 to $2,800,000. In spite of these two gifts to stockholders totaling more than $2,000,000 in face value, profits have averaged 77 per cent on this inflated capitalization. "During these five years, the profits have averaged 22 per cent a year on the full value of the business—the capital stock and surplus combined. And in 1921 the 'bad' year which made the wage cut 'necessary' the company made profits sufficient to have paid 16 per cent on the inflated common stock, in addition to its regular 7 per cent dividend on the preferred stock. "On the basis of the capitalization of $1,500,000, as it stood in 1916, before the $2,000,000 of stock was given away, the Jenckes Spinning company has made profits for the past five years averaging 140 per cent per year. "That is, during the past five years, the textile workers who made the Jenckes products have received wages low enough, and the customers who bought the Jenckes' products have paid prices high enough to yield more than profit enough to have bought control of the Jenckes Spinning Co. each year of the five by paying $140 per share for every share of the $1,500,000 of common shares (per $100) outstanding in 1916. "The value of the concern owned by the stockholders is now nearly three times as great as five years ago. This fact is shown by the increase of the net worth of the corporation (capital and surplus combined) from less than $5,400,000 in 1917, to nearly $14,000,000 in 1921. "Yet the Jenckes Spinning Co. declares that wages must be lower and hours longer. "That is the textile workers' reward for contributing to five years of fabulous profits. "Statistics upon which the statements were based, compiled by the Labor Bureau, Inc., were attached to the statement added.

City Truck Slips Over First Street Dump Into Merrimack River

STREET DEPARTMENT TRUCK AFTER PLUNGE

Michael Brown, a truck driver in the employ of the city street department, narrowly escaped a plunge into the cold and swift moving waters of the Merrimack river yesterday noon, when the Northway truck he was operating slipped back off the bank on the First street into eight feet of water. Brown jumped as he felt the loose bank begin to slide and fortunately his feet struck on firm ground.

It was not until six hours later, or early last evening, that the truck was pulled from the water. A steam roller first was run onto the fill, but two chains were broken in the attempt to raise the truck. Finally two Mack trucks were secured from John Brady and the combined traction was sufficient to pull the Northway from the water.

The submerged truck was not damaged to any great extent.

NO matter what you pay for a car, you won't find greater satisfaction than you can get in the Studebaker SPECIAL-SIX.

That's why so many people who buy entirely from the standpoint of satisfaction, drive the SPECIAL-SIX.

Satisfaction with a SPECIAL-SIX is due to its dependable chassis, its Studebaker-built body, and the completeness of the equipment.

This equipment includes an eight-day clock, one-piece, rain-proof windshield with parking lights in lower corners of windshield base, and windshield wiper. It includes cowl ventilator controlled from dash, tonneau light with extension cord, transmission lock which is operated by same key that locks the tool compartment in the left front door-

3 Trainmen Hurlled to Death

Maine railroad in a statement today regarding the drowning of three employees when the engine and five cars of a freight train on the Claremont branch went into Lake Umbagog, said the accident was due to a soft spot in the roadbed caused by recent rains.

The train was running along the shore of the lake at about 25 miles an hour speed, it was said, when the engine tumbled over half a mile west of the Sunapee station. Five cars went along with it, piling on top of the locomotive. In the latter were Engineer G. W. Atwood, Fireman Ralph Ching and E. J. Kelley, head brakeman. Four cars behind, including the caboose, stayed on the roadbed, although derailed. Frank C. Wood and E. A. Boutwell, brakemen who were among those in the caboose, were slightly injured.

The wreck tied up the line, and it was necessary to transfer passengers around it.

Heavy Rainfall

BOSTON, April 12.—Three persons are dead at Sunapee, N. H., and rivers are bank full at several points in northern New England as a result of a heavy rain storm that swept that section last night.

The Merrimack, Pemigewasset and Piscataquog rivers in New Hampshire, were at high stages, but flood conditions were not regarded as immediately menacing. Part of the dam on the Piscataquog went out last night at Wears, N. H., releasing water that quickly flooded Gray's top factory at East Wears.

The Connecticut river, in its course through southern Vermont and western Massachusetts was at flood stage at several points. It was reported at the highest level in seven years at Springfield, while at Bellows Falls, Vt., more than 20 feet of water was going over the dam.

Weather bureau officials said the heaviest rain was at Burlington, Vt., where the precipitation was .92 of an inch. The fall at Northfield, Vt., was .88 inches. The storm did not approach flood proportions in any part of New England. It was said, although the rain was generally heavy in Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont.

MINERS FORCE TWO PLANTS TO CLOSE

PITTSBURGH, Pa., April 12.—Two more plants of the H. C. Frick Coke company, were closed today by the United Mine Workers in their campaign to carry the coal strike into the Connellsville region, but the important Lelsanring and Trotter plants, employing some 2000 miners and coke workers, were in operation, with what the management termed an increased force.

The mines closed were Colonial No. 1, and Oliphant. They are important plants in ordinary times, but recently only about 150 men have been employed in both.

NAVAL AVIATION POST QUITS AMERICAN LEGION

NEW YORK, April 2.—The naval aviation post of the American Legion with 200 members, displeased at the attitude of the Legion on the bonus question, has surrendered its Legion charter and reorganized as the Naval Aviators' club, an independent organization, it was learned today.

The club is composed exclusively of young men who enlisted in the naval flying service at the outbreak of the war, and most of its members are listed in the social register. Many came out with honors and promotions and the majority now are members in the officers' reserve corps.

WEEKS PREPARES REPLY TO JOHNSON

WASHINGTON, April 12.—Secretary Weeks, after consultation with President Harding today, prepared a formal statement replying to charges against the war department, made on the floor of the house yesterday by Representative Johnson, republican, South Dakota. U. S. Shipyards Building 136,800 Tons

NEW YORK, April 12.—American shipyards are now building 136,800 gross tons of shipping; 8000 tons less than were in the yards on July 1, 1914, said a statement issued today by Lloyds. World shipping in general, is rapidly reverting to the pre-war scale, the statement continues, with Great Britain reporting 500,000 tons more work in hand than in the pre-war period. A decrease of 40 per cent in work in hand, has been reported for American yards in the past three months, and in April 1919 the United States yards were building 4,186,000 tons, or more than the rest of the world's yards combined.

Frustrates Attempt to Burn House

CENTRAL FALLS, R. I., April 12.—Patrolman Collette believes he frustrated an attempt to burn up a house in which 10 workers employed by the Jenckes Spinning Co., were sleeping. Early today he noticed fire in a house in Sprague avenue. He says he believes some person had broken a window, thrust a stick to which was attached a quantity of rags soaked with gasoline and the flames had spread to some furniture. Failing to arouse the residents he got three buckets of water and put out the fire. A bottle that had contained gasoline was found near the building. The Jenckes mills are among those affected by the textile strike in this state.

NAVAL BUDGET DEBATE

Leaders of Both Sides Confident of Winning on Big Point at Issue

WASHINGTON, April 12.—As the house proceeded with its third and last day of general debate on the 1922 naval budget, leaders urging and opposing an enlisted strength of 85,000 claimed votes enough in sight today to win on a straight test on the big point at issue. This may not be reached until next week.

Opposing an "insurgent" party fight to increase the total to 80,000. Chairman Madden of the appropriations committee and Chairman Kelly of the sub-committee in charge of the measure, estimated this would add $20,000,000 to the bill's total of $233,000,000 for men alone. They contended, however, that this would represent only a small part of the increased cost. "Inasmuch as 80,000 men and 6000 apprentices would call for enlarged shore activities to keep that many at work."

Representatives Rogers of Massachusetts; Britton, Illinois; McArthur, Oregon and other republicans in charge of the fight for 80,000 declared pledges had been received from a sufficient number of members to defeat the committee figure. Some predicted there would be between 180 and 200 votes against the 85,000 limitation, but leaders on the other side who are standing by the committee asserted the bill would go through the house substantially as framed.

DAUGHERTY SAYS U. S. TO WATCH COAL PARLEYING

INDIANAPOLIS, April 12.—Ending conferences of two days with federal officials here, Atty. Gen. Daugherty announced tonight that the government would not permit coal operators and miners at any wage conference to repeat acts, which he said, he brought on the federal indictments here charging conspiracy to monopolize the coal industry in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law. "A little more consideration," he said, "will be given by the government in connection with whatever agreement, if any, is entered into, while the negotiations are taking place. This may prevent embarrassment and proceedings afterwards."

Mr. Daugherty's statement was made at the conclusion of his mission here dealing with possibilities for ending the strike. On leaving last night for Washington he declared he was "perfectly satisfied," and announced he planned further conferences bearing on the situation.

Gussie Humann Sentenced For Perjury

NEW YORK, April 12.—Gussie Humann, convicted last week of perjury in her testimony at the recent murder trial of her sweetheart, Joseph Libasci, was sentenced today by Supreme Court Justice Lewis in Long Island City, to not less than seven years and six months and not more than 15 years, in Auburn prison.

SOVIET DELEGATION STAGGERED AND AMAZED

GENOA, April 12.—(By the Associated Press)—The Russian soviet delegation to the economic conference is staggered and amazed at the sweeping political changes in the soviet government suggested in the report of the allied experts on Russia, now before the sub-committee entrusted with formulating plans for Russian reconstruction.

Lenin, Trotsky, Chicherin and others of the Bolshevik leaders have repeatedly said that the recognition of Russia's old debts would be a subject for negotiations looking toward the recognition of the soviet republic. The demands embodied in the report for general recognition of the rights of personal property and better protection for foreigners contemplate changes in the soviet government, however, which would in the opinion of the Russian delegation, as expressed today, wipe out communism utterly and impair the sovereignty of the Russian government.

M'MAHON SATISFIED WITH SITUATION

LAWRENCE, April 12.—Thomas F. M'Mahon, president of the United Textile Workers of America, asserted last night that the strike situation throughout New England was more favorable to the strikers this week than at any previous time. He left the city last night for Pawtucket but said he would return Thursday.

Ben Levere, leader of the One Big Union, said yesterday that plans were under way for a parade of strikers and sympathizers on April 19 to celebrate Patriots day and the 73d anniversary of the founding of the city of Lawrence.

WOOLWORTH & CO. DIVIDEND NEW YORK, April 12.—Directors of F. W. Woolworth & Co. today declared an extra dividend of $2 a share on common stock, in addition to the regular quarterly dividend of $2 a share. Both dividends are payable June 1 to stockholders of record May 1. C. B. Winslow was elected superintendent of buying to replace the late A. Aberton Hepburn.

PARDON DENIED CONCORD, N. H., April 12.—The governor and council today denied the petition for a pardon from state prison from James A. Tyler of Watertown, Mass. Tyler is serving a sentence of 10 years for manslaughter.

PEACE IN ATHLONE LONDON, April 12.—A despatch to the Central News from Athlone says the leaders of both sections of the Irish republican army in conference there have reached an agreement which assures peace in that district.

$400,000 TO PAY POLICE

Bond Issue Authorized Following Two More Murders in New York

NEW YORK, April 12. —While the police yesterday were confronted with two new murders, two gun fights and minor crimes, the board of aldermen, after listening to an attack on Police Commissioner Enright, authorized a $400,000 bond issue to pay 250 of the 1192 additional patrolmen he requested last week from the board of estimate. The attack on Mr. Enright was made by Alderman Falconer who charged that Enright was a "politician and a wave has been." He said that the majority of the men in the department itself have no confidence in the commissioner.

Yesterday's contest between the police and their enemies, however, was fairly sensational. The slaying of Miss Nellie Tracy, 49, was attributed to a "ripper."

John Williams, an assistant janitor in an East Eleventh street apartment, was found this morning lying in a pool of blood with his throat cut. People living in the apartment told of hearing an altercation which was followed by a scream.

A little earlier there was a shotgun fight in Brooklyn in which three alleged handits tried to get away over back yard fences. One of their number was shot, another arrested, but the third escaped.

Yesterday afternoon persons near the foot of Bloomfield street on the North river front were given a thrill as a sharp pistol battle was fought before them. Two men were wounded in a quarrel over trucking prices.

SAMUEL H. HINES LODGE

Two papers were initiated and one application for membership was received at last evening's regular meeting of Samuel H. Hines lodge, 66, K. of P. The rank of equite was conferred on several candidates by the degree staff in charge of P. C. Daniel E. Starkey. It was announced that in the near future Rev. Karl P. Meister will deliver a lecture on Pythianism for both men and women.

WERE ENTERTAINED BY LOWELL TALENT

Soldiers in the hospital at Groton were splendidly entertained Sunday afternoon by young people from this city who gave a very fine program. The entertainment was given under the auspices of the relief committee of the American Legion auxiliary, Mrs. Chas. Young, chairman; Mrs. Edward McDermott, Mrs. Paul Kittredge and Mrs. William H. Morrill.

The soldiers were more than delighted with the entertainment and they in turn made the entertainers happy by their expressions of appreciation. The program was as follows:

Song, Doris Conley; skip-along dance, Doris Clark; solo, William Hinkley; skirt dance, Dorothy Sheely; song, Mary MacPartland; step dance, Al Drowlin; solo, Ruel LeClair; parlor dance, Ellen Sullivan; solo, May Dillon Doherty; specialty, Doris Conley; solo, Helen Beal; selections, Mrs. Charles S. Young; specialty dances, Doris Conley

YOUNG GIRLS NEED CARE

Health Is Happiness

From the time a girl reaches the age of twelve until womanhood is established, she needs all the care a thoughtful mother can give.

The condition that the girl is then passing through is so critical, and may have such far-reaching effects upon her future happiness and health, that it is almost criminal for a mother or guardian to withhold counsel or advice.

Many a woman has suffered years of prolonged pain and misery through having been the victim of thoughtlessness or ignorance on the part of those who should have guided her through the dangers and difficulties that beset this period.

Mothers should teach their girls what danger comes from standing around with cold or wet feet, from lifting heavy articles, and from overworking. Do not let them over-study. If they complain of headache, pains in the back and lower limbs, they need a mother's thoughtful care and sympathy.

A Household Word in Mother's House

writes Mrs. Lynd, about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. "My mother gave me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound when I was 14 years old for troubles girls often have and for loss of weight. Then after I married I took the Vegetable Compound before each child was born and always when I felt the least run-down. Both my sister and sister-in-law take it and have only the highest praise for it. It has been a household word in my mother's house for years." — Mrs. KATHERYN LYND, 2431 Gladys Ave., Chicago, Ill.

A Little Book Helped Her to Decide

Millwaukee, Wis. — "My daughter took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as she was so weak and did not feel like going to school. She was like that for a whole year before taking your Vegetable Compound. I found a little book of yours in our mail-box and decided to give her your medicine. She is now strong and well and attends school every day. We recommend your Vegetable Compound to all mothers with weak daughters. You may use this letter as a testimonial." — Mrs. E. KILGUS, 917 20th Ave., Milwaukee, Wis.

"I was always feeling tired and sleepy, was losing in weight and would faint at times. I had other troubles too, that made me feel badly. I read your little book and heard friends talk about the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done them, so I have taken it too. The results are most satisfactory, for I have gained in weight and my bad symptoms are gone. I recommend your Vegetable Compound to all my friends and you may make whatever use you like of this letter." — GLORIA RAMIREZ, 1116 9th Ave., Tampa, Florida.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women" will be sent you free upon request. Write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Massachusetts. This book contains valuable information.

Analytical Psychologist Tells Why Opera Stars Fail in Marriage

Why are so many grand opera prima donnas unsuccessful in love in real life?

Science furnishes the answer, Frederick Pierce, a famous psychologist, who by study and clinical research has found the key to human conduct, has analyzed these five outstanding cases:

Ganna Walska, thrice married, now in an international divorce battle with Alexander Smith Cochran, carpet millionaire.

Geraldine Farrar, who last summer began divorce proceedings against Lou Tellegen, actor, whom she married in 1916.

Lina Cavalieri, who was divorced her first husband, Ferrari Fontana, and is now separated from Floyd Glotzbach, her chauffeur-husband.

Amelita Galli-Curci, who divorced her artist-husband, Luigi Curci, two years ago and then married Homer Samuel, her accompanist.

Lina Cavalieri, who was divorced from her millionaire husband, Robert W. ("Sheriff Bob") Chandler, and is now the wife of Lucien Muratore.

Following is Pierce's article, viewing these cases, written expressly for N.E.A. Service:

BY FREDERICK PIERCE
Analytical Psychologist, Lecturer and

Author of "Our Unconscious Mind and How to Use It."

NEW YORK, April 10.—Opera prima donnas, like many artists, so often go wrong in selecting mates because they are their own objects of chief importance.

In their profession they personify the emotion of love. They are heroines to the world, and wish to be loved by the world.

Creative temperament grows out of a certain disturbance in the internal secreting glands. Without this disturbance there is no artist.

It may be seen in great lawyers, physicians and business men. The reason, however, that these latter are more likely to stick to the conventional path is that their discipline of training strengthens their ability to make a successful compromise.

The average artist, dominated by glands which produce an excess of imagination and instability, cannot compromise.

The prima donna is so egocentric—self-centered, but not necessarily selfish—that she hasn't the humility to learn how to hold a husband's love.

Consider prima donnas who illustrate these conclusions:

Ganna Walska is of a stormy, intense, variable Slavic temperament.

With her, storm is the essence of life. Nothing in the conventionalized man or society could fulfill more than temporarily the needs of her tempestuous temperament. The man that holds Walska needs great understanding and a temperament of tremendous vitality.

Geraldine Farrar and Lou Tellegen are two egocentric people, both their own love objects. Each is partially self-absorbed. No woman can be Tellegen's mate successfully. Farrar could adjust herself; he couldn't.

She needs someone who fulfills her personality, who brings her appreciation. With Tellegen, who couldn't complement her, she got only rivalry.

Time, Matzenauer illustrates the earnest, even desperate, effort of a woman with a big mating instinct leading to extremes in her effort to find happiness. Her mind's picture is of a man of heroic personality, romantic, poetic. Her first experiment was with a person in her own group; failing, she desperately jumped out of her group to try the impossible with a chauffeur. She failed before she started such an experiment.

Galli-Curci is one of the few who might easily adjust herself to the right man, through compromise. Her first husband, an artist and painter, might have been her what Tellegen was to Farrar. I do not know, but it seems likely. Now she is married to her accompanist, a successful adjustment.

Lina Cavalieri and the millionaire Robert Chandler were two temperaments at loggerheads. With them there was no sound basis of mating, but an inevitable split. Now, married to Muratore there is a working compromise evident between two persons of artistic expression.

Divorces are practically unknown in Sweden.

Consider prima donnas who illustrate these conclusions:

JAPAN WELCOMES MANY PEOPLE PRINCE OF WALES

Thousands Extend Greeting as Royal Visitor Arrives at Yokohama

TOKIO, April 12. (By the Associated Press.)—The Prince of Wales arrived here this afternoon on a special train from Yokohama and was driven in an open carriage escorted by cavalry, to the Imperial palace, where he was received by the empress. Later he went to the Akasaka palace, where he will reside while in Tokio.

Crowds greeted the royal visitor at the railway station and cheered him along the route to the palace, over which triumphal arches had been erected.

Except for the priceless objects of art, the prince found little in the heretofore unoccupied Akasaka palace to remind him that he was in the center of Tokio. His apartments are like a modern hotel suite, and the fittings include even a barber's chair of American make, especially installed.

The Akasaka palace adjoins the Aoyama palace, which was at one time the residence of Prince Hirohito, now the emperor. The grounds about the two palaces are most beautiful and at this time of the year, present a profusion of cherry blossoms.

Greeted at Pier

TOKIO, April 12. (By the Associated Press.)—The Prince of Wales arrived today for his official visit to Japan. Thousands greeted him as he landed from the British battle cruiser Renown which brought him from India.

Yokohama's welcome was not noisy, as the children who lined the streets are disciplined to silence, but the picture they made with their thousands of waving flags in the brilliant sunshine, could scarcely be paralleled.

The American colony was assigned to an advantageous spot from which to view the procession.

The Renown was escorted in from sea by the Japanese light cruiser division, and in the bay six battleships, including the famous Mutsu, joined the escort. As the vessels entered the harbor, there was a roar of guns and a shrieking of sirens. Every class of society was represented in the crowds on the wharves.

LOCAL MAN SUE

BY RAILROAD

S. T. Tobittallie, who does business under the name of the Day State Baking company in this city, was the defendant in a $500 suit started in superior court today before Judge Lawton and a jury. The plaintiff in the case is the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad.

The plaintiff alleges that boxes of paper to the value of $300 were delivered to the defendant but were never paid for, nor the original order bill-of-lading, which was negotiable, surrendered to the plaintiff.

The railroad company claims it had to pay the consignee of the paper the above mentioned sum. The complete declaration embraces four counts.

The defendant's answer was a general denial to all allegations in the plaintiff's declaration and further answered the plaintiff by saying that it had never owed him anything he has paid it in full.

MANY PEOPLE HAVE BEEN CONFUSED

It has been brought to light that hundreds of men and women in Lowell and vicinity have attempted to purchase Allen's LUNG HEALER, through the recommendation of friends, and because their druggist was not an agent for this preparation, they have been sold another article, similar in name but incomparable in merit to LUNG HEALER.

These people, because of the similarity in name have in many instances thought they were using Allen's LUNG HEALER when such was not the case. They have not obtained the results from the substitute that they had been led to expect from the genuine.

It is most unfortunate that so many have suffered from this experience, and been disappointed. If you are one of them, please understand that there is only one Allen's LUNG HEALER, made by H. J. Allen & Co. of West Lynn, Mass., and that no other cheap remedy is made or sold by this concern.

In the future be sure to get LUNG HEALER and accept nothing similar in name. Look for the orange container, 60c a bottle—only one size, 6 ounce.

Princess Elizabeth in Critical Condition

LONDON, April 12.—The condition of Princess Elizabeth, wife of Crown Prince George of Greece, is causing anxiety, says a Central News despatch from Athens, dated Tuesday. Fever has developed, and the patient has a temperature of between 102 and 104, with some hemorrhage. (An Athens despatch last Friday said Princess Elizabeth was seriously ill of typhoid fever.)

Woman Tells Police She Was Kidnapped

BOSTON, April 12.—The police today were questioning Mrs. Rose de Brizzi, who when found in the South station last night, said two men had kidnapped her earlier in the day at Stamford, Conn. The men brought her in an automobile to this city, she said, after taking $5 and her wedding ring. The woman gave the police the license number of a New Jersey automobile in which she said she was brought here.

Schooner Sunk; Captain and Crew Saved

LUBEC, Me., April 12.—The three masted schooner Grace Van Dusen, sunk today in West Quoddy bay, while bound here from New York with 350 tons of coal for the Peacock Canning Co. Captain Britt and the crew of five men, were rescued by the crew from coast guard station No. 1 in a heavy sea. The schooner went down within a few rods of the station. There was a possibility of salvaging part of the cargo, but the schooner was thought to be a total loss. The craft registered 303 tons gross, was built at Millbridge, in 1874 and was owned in New York.

Boston Police Gets 30th Annual Postcard

BOSTON, April 12.—Again for the 30th time in as many years, the Boston police have received a postcard from Medway containing the dates March 30, April 29. The annual cards have been addressed in a woman's handwriting, and have contained no other information. Every effort made by the police and postal authorities to discover the author has failed.

DRY CANDIDATE WINS

Lewis Henry, R., Elected in 37th Congressional District in New York

CORNING, N. Y., April 12.—Unofficial returns complete for the 37th congressional district today give Lewis Henry, republican, a plurality of 2078 over Judge Frank Irvine, democrat, of Ithaca, in yesterday's special election.

Prohibition was the big issue in the campaign, Judge Irvine declaring for repeal of the Volstead act, and substitution of a measure which would legalize the sale of beer and wines. Mr. Henry, the successful candidate, opposed the Volstead act and was supported by prohibition organizations.

There were other points of difference between their statements and those of their neighbors who more than a year ago testified against Mrs. Stillman. The neighbors swore that Mrs. Stillman and Beauvais occupied adjoining rooms in the lodge, and that the Stillman children—Anne, Alexander and James—slept in tents outside.

Mr. and Mrs. Beauvais said there were no tents on the place at that time. The children and Mrs. Stillman occupied rooms on the ground floor, they said, and Beauvais slept upstairs.

Mrs. Beauvais, after identifying Fred's handwriting on three insignificant notes, however, was said to have also identified a letter in which Fred told of the tents being on the place.

Counsel for Mrs. Stillman called several French-Canadians today, to support charges that attempts to bribe witnesses to tell of such improprieties were made by J. Albert Lafontaine, alleged representative of Mr. Stillman.

ASKS SOVIET TO RECOGNIZE DEBT

Allied Plan for Restoration of Russia Before Genoa Conference

Call on Government to Ac- cept Financial Obligation of Its Predecessor

GENOA, April 12 — (By the Associated Press) — The report of the allied experts meeting in London relative to the program for the restoration of Russia and the restoration of Europe, a copy of which the Associated Press has obtained, embodies a comprehensive scheme, whereby it is hoped to bring back Europe, including Russia, to healthful prosperity.

This report, marked "confidential," was handed yesterday to M. Chicherin, head of the Russian delegation, who asked until Thursday to study the preamble. It declares that the restoration of Russia depends in great part upon assistance which Russia will be able to obtain from foreign enterprises and capital, but insists that without profound transformation of the actual conditions in Russia which affect commerce and industry foreigners will refuse either to resume old enterprises or begin new ones.

Under chapter one headed "Liquidation of the past" article one declares that the soviet government should accept the financial obligation of its predecessors, namely, the Imperial Russian government and the provisional government. This includes obligations to foreign powers and their nationals.

Article two provides for recognition by the soviet of the financial engagements of all Russian authorities, provincial or local, and also all public utility enterprises contracted with other powers or their peoples.

Article three declares that the soviet should assume responsibility for all material damage suffered by foreigners in consequence of the acts of negligence of the soviet or its predecessors.

Article four says that the responsibilities mentioned in the preceding articles will be fixed by the commission on the Russian debt and by mixed arbitration tribunals to be created.

Article five declares that all debts, responsibilities and obligations between foreign governments and the Russian government since Aug. 1, 1917, shall be considered as entirely effaced by the payment of sums to be fixed in a future accord.

The report presents three annexes and explains that concerning guarantees on which Russia's debt will be treated two different solutions were brought forward by the powers represented at the London conference, and that no agreement was reached. These solutions are printed in parallel columns when differences occur.

Annex one explains the duties of the committee on the Russian debt. These include the fixing of a constitution and the procedure of the mixed tribunals, also the delivery of new Russian obligations or bonds, by virtue of the decisions of the mixed tribunals.

The succeeding annexes establish a system for determining Russia's debt and the proper steps for preserving the rights of the holders of Russian bonds or other obligations legally entered into by Russia.

Very large powers are accorded to the debt commission, which is composed of members to be named by the Russian government and others appointed by the other powers, with an independent president, who will be chosen from the powers or designated by the League of Nations.

After elaborating the technical details relative to the future handling of the Russian debt, the report declares that the soviet government should promise various reforms in the administration of justice, including independence of the judiciary and free access to the courts by foreigners, who should be treated on a basis of equality.

Further recommendations stipulate that the soviet permit foreigners to enter and leave Russia in conformity with international practice. Foreigners resident in Russia should be exempt from all obligatory military service, have liberty to communicate through the post, telegraph and wireless systems and use telegraphic codes and have every protection and the right to conduct commerce or professions without discrimination or restriction on account of their nationality. No discrimination should be shown in the case of workmen employed by foreigners regarding military service or enforced labor.

Additional rights of foreigners in Russia are suggested on the same basis as in other countries.

The second part of the report is devoted to the restoration of Europe. Resolutions are grouped under the headings of finance, economic and transport. The report declares that an essential condition of economic reconstruction is that each country shall stabilize the value of its money, declaring: "No country can be master of its own money so long as its budget shows an annual deficit which it tries to meet by the issue of paper currency or by opening bank credits. Each country must try by independent effort to remove the deficit."

The report then proceeds to discuss measures for reform on the subjects of exchange, credits, tariff restrictions and prohibitions respecting importations and exportations. A special section is devoted to the subject of transportation; it declares that the administration of international transports must not be determined by political considerations, but by commercial and technical reasons, as emphasized by the convention of Barcelona, 1921, dealing with the liberty of transit.

"It is desirable," says the report, "that representatives of the railroads of the different countries should hold a conference to determine what measures are necessary for the restoration of international traffic conditions, which should be equally efficient as during the pre-war period."

(This clearly implies that the restoration of the trans-Siberian railway is desirable; this railway has been closed to world communication since the Russian revolution.)

Referring to the reconstruction on Russia, the report especially emphasizes that effective collaboration of Russia and other nations will be difficult unless Russia wholeheartedly abhors to restore her economic life, the basis of which is agriculture. Security regarding property rights is a necessary condition for the re-birth of Russia, the report continues, and when this comes foreign assistance will be available immediately. In her industrial life Russia cannot expect foreign help unless foreigners are able to count upon the good will and collaboration of the Russian government.

POSTOFFICE IMPROVEMENTS
Aging Postmaster Dellella has been informed by Congressman Rogers that his plans for improvements to the postoffice building in Gorham street will have to be postponed until after June 30 as no appropriation is available until the end of the fiscal year. The improvements planned include the erection of a shed in the rear of the building for the loading and unloading of postal trucks, alterations in the men's rest room and the laying of a floor over the workroom at the second story.

The monthly business meeting of the British Great War Veterans of America, Inc., was held last evening in the Free church in Middlesex street. Routine business was transacted and it was voted to hold a whist party at the next meeting, which will be open to members and friends.

ARE YOU THIN AND SCRAWNY?

The Bones of the Body Were Not Intended to Show—Cover Them
With Flesh

Nobody wants to be called "fat," but even fat people are better off than those unfortunate who are so painfully thin that they have that "scrawny" look. Especially is this true of women. The rounded figure is the figure of health and beauty. If you are too thin you can add solid, firm flesh by taking Gude's Pepto-Mangan with your meals for a few weeks. It will put you in better health and Nature will restore you to your normal weight. Pepto-Mangan itself does not add weight but it does build up health. You won't be thin and scrawny if you are well. Get it of your druggist. He sells it in both liquid and tablet form.—Adv.

Fleischmann's
fresh yeast helps digestion and cleans a coated tongue

THOUSANDS of men and women have found relief from various digestive disturbances by eating Fleischmann's Yeast.

It is human nature to want to find out "why." So far as science can tell us this is the reason:

Fleischmann's Yeast is a food abundant in certain elements which are necessary to health and life itself. It promotes the flow of bile and of pancreatic juice. It has a remarkably beneficial effect on the whole digestive system. It cleans a coated tongue.

Try Fleischmann's fresh yeast in orange juice or, if you prefer, in milk. Men like it in milk shakes and unadorned milks. Women like it spread on bread or crackers.

Keep your digestion in the pink of condition and your tongue clean and healthy by eating 1 or 3 cubes of Fleischmann's Yeast fresh every day before or between meals. Get Fleischmann's Yeast fresh daily from your grocer.

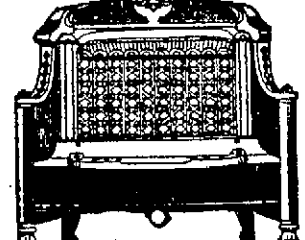

The familiar tin-fall package with the yellow label is the only form in which Fleischmann's Yeast is sold

Radio Pierces Stone Walls

BY HARRY B. HUNT
WASHINGTON, April 11.—On a table 3x12 feet, in a room adjoining the office of Major General Squier, chief of the army signal corps, stand the most unique long-distance radio receiving sets in the country. Everything connected with the two sets is contained within the walls of the room. There are no outside antennas, with aerial towers and wires to catch the wireless waves from the open ether.

The windows may be shut, the keyholes plugged, every crack through which a fugitive wavelet might be expected to creep in tightly closed, and yet the instruments in this room will pick up the messages broadcasted from Bordeaux, France, Nauen, Germany, or Cernarvon, Wales, as clearly and distinctly as will the Arlington station with its three massive towers and its network of high-strung antennas.

Penetrating through brick and plaster and glass, the radio waves are picked up by small coils or loop antennas, strung like yarn on a reel about three feet in diameter. Each dot and dash, however, is clear and distinct and easily read by anyone familiar with Morse. The development of the loop antennas, General Squier says, removes one of the serious problems following the rapid expansion of radio.

In cities, the entire sky threatened to become crisscrossed with a network of radio wires. This unsightly and complicated web of wires may now be altogether dispensed with and each receiving set so built that no part of it need extend outside the four walls of the room where the set is located.

Below is Bernard H. Linden, federal radio traffic cop at San Francisco. He has to prevent amateurs from putting in on important commercial or marine messages, and if he catches you doing it, you lose your license!

Radio fans, here's a new profession open to you—one that's not overcrowded or likely to be for some time. Be an etheral traffic cop!

The profession's already well established. Here you see two busy radio cops at work.

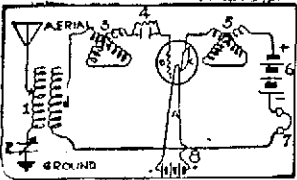

Above is Radio Inspector Schmitt on the job at Chicago. Every evening he listens to see if that no one hog the ether, sends out of turn or uses the wrong wave length. Schmitt has charge of the 13 states comprising the ninth district.

HOW TO MAKE A

REGENERATIVE SET

BY R. L. DUNCAN,

Director, Radio Institute of America. For selectiveness in tuning and all-around efficiency, the regenerative set is the best. Practically all its parts, with the exception of the vacuum tube, can be made by the amateur. The diagram shows the hook-up of the most efficient regenerative receiving set.

No. 1 is the variocoupler.
No. 2. A variable condenser. Although this is not absolutely necessary, this condenser adds selectiveness in tuning.
No. 3. A variometer in the grid circuit.
No. 4. The grid leak and grid condenser.
No. 5. The plate variometer or tickler.
No. 6. A 22-volt dry battery which may be purchased in any electrical store for about $1.25.
No. 7. The head phones, which should have between 2000 and 3000 ohms resistance.
No. 8. A 6-volt, 60 to 120-ampere-hour battery for the filament of the tube.
A is the filament, B is the grid, C is the plate.
In wiring the set use No. 16 or 18 copper wire and use "spaghetti" insulation. Try not have any of the connecting wires running parallel. All of these parts can be made. Tomorrow I will show you how to do it.

Below is Bernard H. Linden, federal radio traffic cop at San Francisco. He has to prevent amateurs from putting in on important commercial or marine messages, and if he catches you doing it, you lose your license!

Solenoid—This is a helix consisting of a number of turns through which electric current flows. A solenoid has north and south poles and possesses all the properties of a permanent steel magnet with the advantage that the magnetism of the solenoid is entirely under control.

STRIKE OF MINERS ENDS

WOONSOCKET, R. I., April 12.—The strike of weavers at the Manchester mills here ended temporarily today when the operatives agreed to return tomorrow morning and complete present contracts which will take until May 1. They still refuse to accept a 10 per cent cut and 54-hour week which the company proposes to put into effect May 1. About 100 workers are involved.

There are 20 separate islands in the Hawaiian Islands.

Merrimack River Rising

40,000 cubic feet per second flows over the dam, but the river is high enough to cause the local sewer department to abandon work on an extension job at the foot of Fulton street, off Lakeview avenue, as the water has backed up there to fill a manhole to a depth of three feet.

Since Monday, when the river was running 27,500 feet per second, a gradual rise has been recorded and an increase of more than 8000 cubic feet per second has occurred.

The dam at Pawtucket falls practically has disappeared and very little fall is apparent except at the Varnum ave end. In the middle river and near the gate house, the water is sweeping over into the rapids below with hardly a noticeable break to mark its passage over the dam.

The Concord has not shown a tendency to step along with its larger sister and today is not running as high as it did on several occasions in March. Water was sweeping over the Whipple dam in Lawrence street this noon at the rate of 1140 cubic feet per second and stood slightly better than a foot over the crest of the dam. At one mouth of Beaver brook and the water at the dam reached 1900 cubic feet per second.

Real flood conditions are not apparent at any point along the Merrimack as it passes through Lowell, although the water has stretched over a considerable amount of land near the mouth of eBeaver brook and the water has reached up several feet on large tree trunks there.

The canals reflect the high water of the Merrimack and are running full. No little amount of small sized driftwood is being swept along with the current.

Farther up the river on the Pawtucket boulevard side the water has reached pretty well up the bank and today is lapping very close to the doors of the municipal bath house. The beach there has entirely disappeared. On the other side, low land near the old Vesper boat house is revealing its usual spring baptism.

The first actual clock was produced about 990 A. D.

Almanacs were first used in England and Denmark.

Motor buses are now used by 12 railroads in the United States.

Banks Refuse to Lend Money

—Mayor to Cut Police and Fire Forces to 25 Men Each

YOUNGSTOWN, O., April 12.—With the approval of the chamber of commerce, Mayor George L. Oles announced today that he would reduce the police and fire departments to 25 men each. There are 135 police and about 80 firemen at present.

Those who want additional fire and police protection must band together and hire it, the mayor said. The city has no money to pay salaries and the banks have refused to lend any.

To Propose "Army Holiday"

naval holiday arranged at the Washington conference.

Disarmament continued to be the most discussed question among the delegates here, although barred from formal consideration.

Louis Barthou, head of the French delegation, asked if France would be disposed to discuss disarmament at some later conference, replied:

"If I wanted to say the easy, pleasant thing, my answer would be yes, and yet the real answer of France is we don't know."

"Don't forget that we have before us a great army in Russia, and while Germany certainly is not a menace at present, we have a menace in the potentially great German army of the future."

The report on financial questions prepared by the Germans and presented by Dr. Rathenau to Premier Faticas as chairman of the conference, was transmitted today to Sir Robert Horne, chancellor of the British exchequer, and will be discussed at the afternoon meeting of the financial commission.

The report deals especially with a plan for the stabilization of exchange through an international loan and also outlines a proposal for universal monetary reform. The German plan considers the reconstruction of Russia indispensable for the successful issue of any such reform.

Makes "Old Masters" Overnight

BY ROY GIBBONS

CHICAGO, April 10.—Climb four rickety flights of stairs to a garret studio perched at the top of one of the most ramshackle buildings of Chicago's Latin quarter and you'll find—

An artist—
A parrot—
And a $1,000,000 secret!
The artist is Theodore Van Cina—and he's a chemist as well.
The parrot is Balboa, his chum.
And the secret?
That's a progress of making overnight duplicates of old masters, so perfect that the most discerning expert cannot see a flaw.

Van Cina is the only living person who knows the secret, he says.
Refuses Million
And he has just turned down a $1,000,000 offer from the representative of a European art gallery. He'll carry the secret with him to the grave, if he dies in poverty, he declares.

"Because," says Van Cina, "I am not a trickster. To commercialize old masters would be like rising up and striking my own mother. I shall not become a plagiarist."
At noon today, Van Cina could paint a reproduction of a Raphael, Van Dyke or Rembrandt. Before tomorrow morning, by a chemical process, he could age the picture 500 years! His duplicate would be so accurate that even the cracks in the paint would show.

Stumbled on Secret

his secret while studying art at The Hague, 30 years ago.
A Dutch noble took Van Cina under his patronage and brought him several original old masters which he asked Van Cina to copy minutely.
"I did this," says Van Cina, "until I learned that my patron had been borrowing these masterpieces from his friends and returning my copies to them while keeping the originals for himself."
"When I threatened exposure, my patron committed suicide."
Van Cina has done decorative work for the queen-mother of Holland. He occasionally uses his secret to copy old masters for his friends or himself.

PINAFORE CASTE CAREFULLY PICKED

Although the sale of tickets on last Saturday was large, there are now many good seats on sale at the Opera House for both performances of Pinafore on Monday, April 17th.
The rehearsals are showing that this year's work will be up to the high standard set in the performance of "Mikado" last year under Mr. Blunt's direction for the Teachers' organization.

Edward J. Slattery, Jr., as "Koko" and Miss Charlotte Walsh as "Katisha" will be equally fine this year as Sir Joseph and Little Buttercup. James A. MacDonald also of last year's cast will be seen as the Boatman. John B. Doyle will play the difficult role of Ralph Rakstraw. Raymond Slater as the gallant captain and his daughter, Josephine, played by Miss Marion Lane, will be as fine an interpretation as ever seen on a local stage.

SUSCEPTIBLE TO DIPHTHERIA GERMS

Sixty per cent. of the 30 children of the Wood Street primary school who were Schick tested last week by Dr. Francis A. Finnegan, director of school hygiene, to determine immunity from diphtheria germs, were found to be susceptible.

Readings to ascertain the results of the tests were made yesterday and Dr. Finnegan said later that the percentage of susceptibles is about the average in a group of children of the usual primary school age.

Children whose readings were positive will be given immunity if the parents so desire and in all cases parents will be notified of the result of the test. In no instance was there any sign of disfigurement on the part of a child who was tested and no ill effects were apparent.

GRANT LODGING HOUSE LICENSES

Three lodging-house licenses which have been before the license commission on several occasions, and which the police reported as houses of doubtful repute, were granted for the probationary period of two weeks at a meeting of the committee last night.
A hearing in the case of a coffee house proprietor in Duane street, for having a gaming machine in his possession, was continued until next Tuesday evening.

STORM CENTER

Elmer Dover, assistant secretary of the treasury, is a center of a political storm that may result in the resignation of high government officials. Politicians say President Harding supports him in opposition to Secretary Mellon and Internal Revenue Collector Blair.

A hibernating bear in winter breathes four times a minute, or one-tenth as often as he breathes when awake.

Back Weak and Lame for Years

St. Jacobs Oil stops all pain, so when your back is sore and lame or lumbago, sciatica or rheumatism have you stiffened up, don't suffer! Get a small trial bottle of old, honest St. Jacobs Oil at any drug store, pour a little in your hand, and rub it right on your aching back; and by the time you count fifty the soreness and lameness are gone.
Don't stay crippled. This nothing, penetrating oil needs to be used only once. It takes the pain right out and ends the misery. It is magical, yet absolutely harmless, and doesn't burn the skin.
Nothing else stops lumbago, sciatica, backache or rheumatism so promptly. It never disappoints!—Adv.

JEWISH PEOPLE WILL OBSERVE FEAST

Today marks the opening of the feast of Unleavened Bread or Passover, which will be observed by all Jewish people for a period of seven or eight days, according to their interpretation of the biblical injunction in Exodus 23:14, and in observance of the feast special services were held in all the local Jewish synagogues today.

During the Passover week all Jewish families abstain from eating leaven in any form and in its stead use the Matzo, concluding the festival on April 19th.

The first and last days are days of holy convocation. That is, services are held on these days in the synagogues. The evening of the first day of Passover is particularly important.

This evening is known in Jewish circles as "Seder Night." Its intent is to unite members of a household about the festive board and there read together the ritual compiled for the occasion and known as the "Haggadah." This liturgical composition recites the chief events of the Exodus of the Children of Israel from Egypt and with many a quaint song and story reviews memories of hardship in ancient days from which the people of Israel were delivered by a strong hand and an outstretched arm.

Passover, it will readily be seen, reaches back to remote antiquity when it was observed by the Hebrew tribes in the dawn of history as an agricultural festival incident to spring.

At an early period in the history of these tribes they attained a degree of self-consciousness and associated historical events with their career. The Exodus from Egyptian bondage was commemorated in this Pesach feast. An entirely new content was invested in the feast which became a message of freedom and a memorial of deliverance from slavery and oppression.

FOOD SHOW TO OPEN HERE MONDAY

Preparations are under way for opening the big state food exposition, Monday night in the Kinsale, to run throughout the week, afternoons and evenings. Women will have an opportunity to see the very best in the line of prepared foods, as well as food being cooked. Many of the dainty dishes will be served in the hall.

Standard articles put out by the best provision firms of the east will be demonstrated in booths. The exposition already has been given for one week in Boston and proved a great success. From here it will go to Springfield, Haverhill and Fall River. The Lowell Retail Grocers' and Provision Dealers' association has provided the fair.

There will be music afternoons and evenings, and a number of attractions for the exposition visitors in addition to the food displays. Nothing but standard goods of known worth will be demonstrated, for nothing but the best is the motto of the exhibitors.

JEWISH RELIEF FUND REMAINS BELOW MARK

Although the Jewish Relief Fund campaign in Lowell officially is ended, yet a few contributions continue to come to the committee. Less than $18,000 of the $25,000 quota assigned was raised here.

The quota for the entire country was $14,000,000, and has been more than realized. And Boston yet is to be heard from. The quota assigned to The Hub is $400,000. That city is the last of the larger places to start the drive. Three $25 donations and three others of $10 each were received by the Lowell committee since the campaign closed. Any further contributions will be welcome, the committee announces.

RESEARCH CLUB ENTERTAINS
The Women's Research club entertained the Sun Valley Foss club, with a musical program and farce presented in the parish house of Grace Universalist church, yesterday afternoon. The Beacon Hill trio provided the music, and members of the Research club enacted the farce. Refreshments followed the entertainment program.

Silk stockings last longer washed this way, say makers of "Onyx" hosiery

Emery & Beers Company, Inc.
BROADWAY AT 24TH STREET

Lever Bros. Co.,
Cambridge, Mass.

Gentlemen:

No silk stocking can be expected to wear well if it is allowed to remain unwashed for days. Perspiration acids, dust and leather stains will rot the delicate silk threads.

Silk stockings should be washed after every wearing and washed as gently as every other fine fabric.

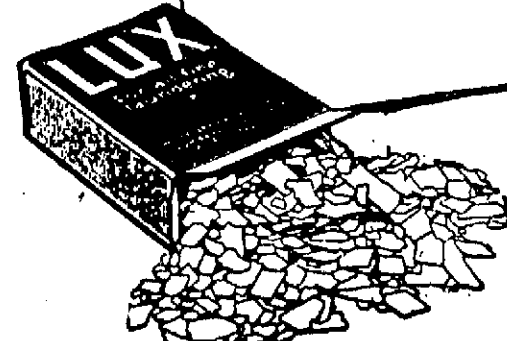

Lux, with its generous suds is ideal for the quick, thorough washing silk stockings require. The rich suds are squeezed through the sheer fabric and totally do away with rubbing, which is too harsh for fine silk.

We advise every woman who buys our silk stockings to launder them with Lux.

Very truly yours,

STOMACH UPSET?

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away go indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a heavy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. 15c and 30c.—Adv.

Skin Eruptions
Are Usually Due to Constipation

When you are constipated, there is not enough lubricant produced by your system to keep the food waste soft. Doctors prescribe Nujol because its action is so close to this natural lubricant.

Nujol is a lubricant—not a medicine or laxative—so cannot gripe. Try it today.

HEADACHE

LF is only a symptom of trouble somewhere in your system. If your headache comes from your eyes, consult an oculist at once; but if you have a headache with fevered tongue, nausea, loss of appetite and constipation, it usually comes from disordered digestion or torpid liver and one or two doses of "LF." Atwood's Medicine will give speedy relief by carrying off impurities and restoring the clogged digestive organs to their normal activity. In using this old reliable remedy you take no chances. It has a record of more than sixty years as a safe headache remedy.

Mountains Are "Melted" To Produce Oil

NEW DEVICE TRANSFORMING A COLORADO MOUNTAIN INTO OIL AND OTHER COMMERCIAL PRODUCTS. INSETS (LEFT), HARRY M. BROWN, ITS INVENTOR, AND (RIGHT), THOMAS DWYER, CHEMIST, WHO AIDED HIM

DENVER, April 10.—A marvelous new machine that scientists say will rival the steam engine, the telephone, the airplane and the wireless, is at work near here.

It cuts mountains! And transforms them into oil, paraffin, asphalt, perfume, dyes, and synthetic rubber! It is taking the gambling element out of the oil industry. It will no longer be necessary to sink wells to get oil.

With this new machine oil men can measure up an oil shale cliff, figure out how much oil it will produce, turn a crank and put the machine to work. The machine is the invention of Harry L. Brown, New York. He got the idea when ranchers told him of rocks that caught fire. He knew these were shale oil rocks.

He secured the aid of Thomas Dwyer, Philadelphia chemist, and perfected the machine.

Of course the machine will not transform all mountains into commercial products—it works only with shale rocks.

The machine is a series of revolving retorts, heated by oil burners, its giant maw crushes down the crude shale rock. A big fan propels the rock through the retorts.

The heat volatilizes the oil in the rock and it is sucked out through pipes and carried to tanks. Both lubricating oils and gasoline are produced.

After the oil has been extracted the rest of the rock goes on through other retorts where other products—155 in all—are taken from it.

Finally the rock is dumped out at the rear of the machine as black dust. This dust is made up of hydrocarbons of high commercial value.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

(By Theatres' Own Press Agents)

R. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Barry in "The Ruse," which is featured at the R. F. Keith theatre this week, are among the very best of performers in vaudeville. Always sure of a very warm welcome, and nowhere more than in Lowell, they have one of the few perfect vehicles on the stage today. Josie Rooney, who is associated with Bobby Nelson and Rube Beckwith in a dancing act, is a pretty, snappy dancer, and the Hegedus Sisters, violinists, are quite the best executants in their line we have known during the entire season. Their program is of the top-class kind throughout. Other acts of the week are: Sharkey, Roth & Wit; Ringers; Morali & Harris; in a skit; Countess Verona; clowns; and Montambo & Nap, silent funsters.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Final performances will be given this evening at the Merrimack Square theatre of "The Grudge," starring Ethel Clayton. Tomorrow there will be the usual mid-week change of program.

Manager Nelson has selected a program of exceptional merit for Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The leading features will be "Shame," a stirring dramatic creation with John Gilbert and an all-star cast, and "Hush Money," starring the one and only Alice Brady. The third big feature will be a Clyde Cook comedy, "The Chauffeur."

"Shame" is a story of striking power and wonderful appeal. One can't do it justice in cold print. The spectator is shown the seductive life of the orient, the interior of the palace of an oriental potentate, a life battle with wolves in the Arctic and various other scenes of equal dramatic power. The star, John Gilbert, is a talented, able actor, who is fast making his way to the forefront of dramatic screen luminaries. Don't overlook this big photoplay. It's one of the treats of the season.

"Hush Money," the other big feature for the week-end, deals with the spoiled daughter of a big Wall Street operator, who has been reared to believe that money can buy and do anything. Thus, inadvertently, the girl finds herself involved in an affair that would make splendid front page reading. Her father and her fiancé both wish to hush the matter up by paying a generous sum, but the girl finds courage to face her responsibilities.

Not only does this situation offer Alice Brady a strong dramatic role, but also, as the daughter of a New York millionaire, opportunity for a very smart wardrobe. Probably there is no actress on the screen who wears clothes with more chic and distinction than Alice Brady, and her gowns and wraps in this production are said to be unusually sumptuous.

In "The Chauffeur," Clyde Cook has one of the funniest comedies of his laugh-provoking career. It will chase every blue within hailing distance. Features for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week will include Gloria Swanson in "Her Husband's Trade Mark," and Marlon Davies in "Beauty's Worth."

THE STRAND

Tom Moore, assisted by Helene Chadwick in "From the Ground Up," a delightful comedy drama, will be shown for the last time today at the Strand. The second feature of merit

DYED A SWEATER AND SKIRT WITH DIAMOND DYES

Every "Diamond Dyes" package tells how to dye or tint any worn, faded garment or drapery a new rich color that will not streak, spot, fade, or run. Perfect home dyeing is guaranteed with Diamond Dyes even if you have never dyed before. Just tell your druggist whether the material you wish to dye is wool or silk, or whether it is linen, cotton or mixed goods. For fifty-one years millions of women have been using "Diamond Dyes" to add years of wear to their old, shabby waists, skirts, dresses, coats, sweaters, stockings, draperies, hangings, everything!—Adv.

Lottie Pickford, a sister of Mary Pickford, is the star of the gripping dramatic screen effort of rare excellence.

For the week-end, starting with matinee on Thursday, Blanche Sweet in "That Girl Montana," and Miss du Pont, one of the stars of "Foolish Wives," in her newest screen success, "The Golden Galleons." Both are strong film offerings. Miss Sweet plays the part of a vigorous, daring, self-reliant out-door girl in "That Girl Montana," which is an adaptation of Marsh Ellis Ryan's popular novel. It relates the adventure and romance in the life of Montana Rivers, who fought to live down a past she was not responsible for.

Miss du Pont, who was seen to particular advantage in "Foolish Wives," will have an entirely new role in "The Golden Galleons." It's a story of a show girl who handled some ancient temptations in her own way and won. Don't fail to see and enjoy Miss du Pont's talent and beauty.

RIALTO THEATRE

Today is the last showing of the sterling production, "The Rosary," which has drawn heavily to the Rialto theatre for the past two days. On the same program is a story of the Canadian northwest, mounted, polished, entitled "Corporal Jim's Ward," also a comedy and the Kinograms.

Beginning tomorrow and continuing for the remainder of the week the Rialto will have two extra good attractions entitled "Should a Wife Work?" and "Out of the Dust." Both are classed among the best pictures of the year. "Out of the Dust" is a picturesque type of melodrama. It is a big clean, thrilling picture of outdoor prairie life inspired, we are told, by the great Remington paintings. The picture is exceedingly well presented, with careful costuming of the period and a faithful attention to detail. The early scenes of life at Fort Sheridan, when the army post was a mere barbed wire and the Indians roamed the plains, are unusually interesting. The story vibrates with a human appeal and it is all convincing and real. It contains many of those moments which make the eyes suspiciously moist, while now then, a bit of good humor greets in to even the score. Don't forget to go and see this picture. You won't be sorry.

BOSTON MAN WAS NERVOUS

Indigestion Interfered With Sleep

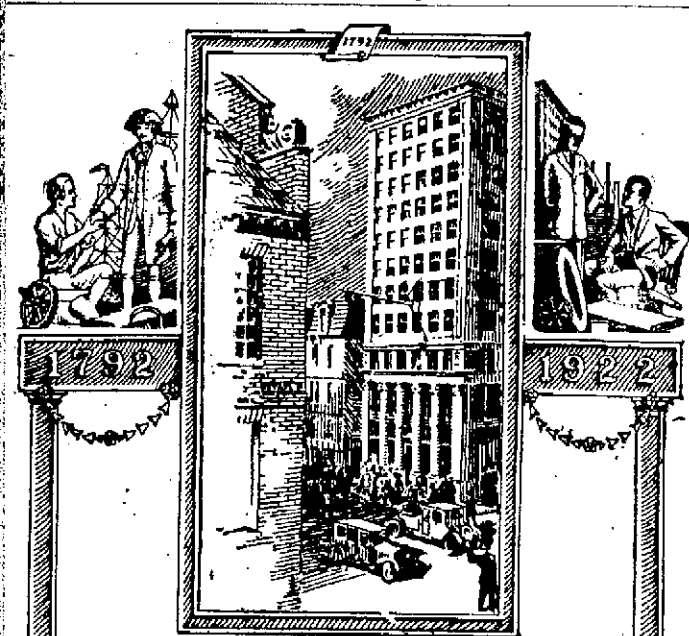

How Joseph Boyce of 15 Chambers street, Boston, conquered his nervous, sleepless nights, caused by indigestion, is interestingly told by himself.

"A friend of mine who has been using your medicine for himself and family, advised me to try it. I had not been a well man—was nervous and couldn't sleep well—but I was surprised at the good that Bosak's Horke Vino did me. I sleep good now and am not troubled with pains. I recommend Bosak's Horke Vino to any person who is suffering from indigestion or weakness. I would not be without your medicine now that I know the great good it has done for me."

The genuine Bosak's Horke Vino is for sale at Campbell's Drug Store, 223 Central St., and the Burkinshaw Drug Co., 418 Middlesex St., and all good dealers.—Adv.

THESE prizes will be given away for the best titles to the Orange-Crush Picture, shown above.

Everybody is eligible. Men, women, boys, girls—all are urged to name a title for this picture. Nothing could be easier. Do it now, while you think of it. It will be real fun—and you have a real chance to win First Prize, or at least one of the other valuable prizes.

Why this contest?

This is the first gun in the 1922 Orange-Crush campaign. This year you will hear lots about this drink, and about the companion drinks, Lemon-Crush and Lime-Crush. This contest is to get everybody thinking about the "Crushes" at the very start of Spring.

The picture here shown is by Norman Rockwell, the famous artist. It was painted especially for Orange-Crush Company. Soon you will see it in beautiful colors, displayed wherever Orange-Crush is sold. Now we want a title for the picture.

At the close of the contest a committee of judges will decide which are the best titles submitted. The prizes are listed elsewhere in this advertisement.

Read these facts about Orange-Crush—they will help you think of a title: This is the seventh year of this famous drink. It is the largest selling fruit-flavored beverage in the world, due to its purity, quality and deliciousness. Many imitations have arisen, but none has ever approached the original Ward's Orange-Crush. The flavors in Orange-Crush, Lemon-Crush and Lime-Crush are genuine, obtained entirely from citrus fruits. Each delicious finished drink is a compound of fruit oils and fruit juices obtained from oranges, lemons or limes, finest cane sugar, U.S. certified food color, carbonated water and citric acid (natural acid of citrus fruits).

Get busy now. Put on your thinking cap and think of a title for the picture. See the list of prizes. Read the simple rules. Send or bring your title without delay. You may win First Prize.

Rules of Contest

The contest is now open. It will close Saturday, May 6, 1922, at noon. Everybody can join, except our employees.

All you need to do is to write your title on a sheet of paper, sign your name and address beneath, and leave it with any drink dealer, or mail or bring it to the bottling company's address given below. Write plainly. Use one side of paper only. You can suggest more than one title—as many as you wish. Titles may be original or may be a quotation.

Titles will be judged by three judges selected from well known citizens of this community. Decisions will be final. By "best" is understood that title which most cleverly describes the situation shown in the picture.

In case of ties the full amount of the prize will be given to each tying contestant. Awards will be published in this paper as soon as possible after close of the contest. Checks will be sent to winners immediately afterwards.

The "crinkly" bottle is used for all three "Crushes." It is your guide to the genuine. Look for it when you buy.

The "Crushes" are prepared by Orange-Crush Co., Plant and Laboratories, Chicago.
In Canada: Orange-Crush Co., Ltd., Winnipeg. English Address: 47 Old Tower St., London, E.C.3.

OPTIMISM SAVES LIVES

When a man reaches a point at which he thinks his life is worthless, he is assuredly in a hapless plight; but let it be understood that no normal life is worthless and none can be worthless unless made so by misuse or misdirection. This is a case in which optimism combined with courage will banish that mental gloom that leads many to self-destruction.

Nothing is more strange than the lightness with which some men regard their own lives and their destiny. Very few realize what a mysterious world we live in and what an insignificant circumstance may change the whole tenor of a life time. This is especially true of a young person, a boy or girl unable to see the far-reaching effect of any particular course.

As the slightest vibration sends out ether waves to a vast distance, so a single word or act, however trifling, may have an important effect for good or ill on the heart or mind of a susceptible person. Thus it is apparent that when untoward events happen in the lives of individuals, there is no telling to what circumstance it may all be attributed. It may be a casual remark heard in conversation, a passage read from a book or even an editorial from a newspaper.

We were impressed with the sad case of a young man about a week ago—and yet old enough to have better sense—who committed suicide by inhaling gas while listening to a radio concert and at the same time writing an account of his feelings as the gas entered his system and gradually ended his life.

He had served overseas, fought in the battle of the Argonne, and now, after having braved those perils and survived, he died by his own hand because he took a pessimistic view of life and because he obviously had no sense of moral responsibility for his own acts, even in such a vital step.

He left a note reading, "I am the result of thirty-eight years of failure." What a sad verdict to be passed upon himself by a young man while thus acting as his own executioner!

Had he mustered one-thousandth part of the courage which he had shown on the battlefield, he could have overcome the wave of adversity in which he had found himself. Had he told some friends of his plight, he would assuredly have been saved; but he made up his mind that he was a failure, an innumerable to himself and others and on this false assumption, he ended his life.

The verdict of the public will be that while he was to be pitied, he lacked two qualities very essential to every man who has to meet the struggles of life. These are VISION to see conditions and COURAGE to do what seems best calculated to meet those conditions and win success in spite of all obstacles.

In this connection, we cannot recall anything better calculated to overcome pessimism and to inspire hope and courage in the face of adversity than the following stanzas on "Opportunity Lost," by Malone. They offset the idea contained in the "Opportunity" poems by Ingalls and others, the effect of which is to cause regret or despondency on account of losing an opportunity, just as if that were the one and only chance of a lifetime, whereas others just as good may be available if we only go out and find them. The poem:

OPPORTUNITY LOST

They do me wrong who say I come no more,
When once I knock and fail to find you in;
For every day I stand outside your door,
And bid you wake and rise to fight and win.

Will not the precious chances passed away,
Weep not for golden ages on the wane;
Each night I turn the records of the day,
At sunrise every soul is born again.

Laugh like a boy at splendors that have sped,
To vanished joys be blind and deaf and dumb;
My judgment seals the dead past with its dead,
But never binds a moment yet to come.

Though deep in mire, wring not thy hands and weep,
I lend my arm to all who say "I can,"
No shamefaced outcast ever sank so deep,
But yet might rise and be again a man.

Do not behold thy lost youth all aglaze,
Do not reel from righteous retribution's blow,
Then turn from blotched archives of the past
To find thy future pages white as snow.

Art thou a mourner? rouse thee from thy spell,
Art thou a sinner? sinna may be forgiven,
Each morning gives thee wings to flee from hell,
Each night a star to guide thy feet to Heaven.

That is a poem that every young man should commit to memory on account of its optimistic spirit. It is just such an inspiration that is needed to enable us to view things in a rational way, to look upon the bright side, as it were, and to see through the lowering clouds of adversity or affliction the sun of prosperity and hope rather than assume that a fatal pall settles upon the earth and that the only refuge is despondency or death.

A SPOILS RAID

The action of President Harding in removing 29 executives of the bureau of engraving and printing at Washington has caused quite a stir in political circles and has brought a vigorous protest from the National Civil Service Reform League of which Secretary Hughes is vice president.

This action is but one of the steps toward making places for hungry republican office seekers. It is understood that the procedure upon the president has been so great that he was obliged to yield. It is also understood that a general sweep will be made in the postoffice department, overturning the civil service rules and abolishing the standing of a great many officials who have considered themselves secure in their positions.

The law is quoted against such action but apparently the republican leaders care nothing for such considerations. The protest of the 29 executives will avail nothing, and the political axe is to be used still further. The other victims will protest in the same way, but the work of clearing out democratic officials and making way for republican office seekers will continue. Inasmuch as the party leaders and the ground slipping from under their feet, they hope to hold their supporters by distributing the spoils of office as directed by the party bosses.

President Harding has given no reason for his action as required by law and it is generally believed that there is no reason except politics. It was a spoils raid as will soon appear when the places will be gradually filled.

HALF OF ONE PER CENT

Twenty years ago the commissioner of internal revenue consulted a committee of beer specialists, headed by Dr. Max Baer, they advised him that a beverage containing more than half of 1 per cent alcohol should be classified as "fermented."

This was the basis of the Volstead ruling on alcoholic content. A plea-

ture of Max should be in the home of every wet.

Now Max suggests that what is fermented is not necessarily intoxicating. He recommends a decision by a committee of 10, to be appointed by the American Medical Association and the American Chemical Society.

Heads thinks the committee would vote "2.75" beer non-intoxicating. Incidentally, he is convinced that prohibition is here to stay.

Some think it a very funny thing to allow Max to decide the alcoholic content of our non-intoxicating beverages.

Still Professor John J. Mahoney keeps climbing up the educational ladder. Now he is head of the education department of Boston university as well as director of the extension work to be conducted jointly by Harvard and the B. U. Prof. Mahoney has made a national reputation in Americanization work in which he is recognized as a leading authority.

Now it is in order for pedestrians to observe the white crossing and autoists the safety zone lines marking the space allowed for passengers getting on and off cars. Strict observance of these crossing and safety lines should reduce the number of accidents.

Now is the time to get to work on the home gardens. There should be a return to the war garden system. It would help to reduce the cost of living.

That is a hopeful move started by Mayor O'Neill of Dublin in bringing all the contending elements together to settle upon a policy in which they can all agree.

If the fuel administrator has anything to do, John M. O'Donoghue will discharge the duties quite satisfactorily.

Doubtless the police would like new summer uniforms, but not all of them may feel inclined to pay the price.

SEEN AND HEARD

Somebody has said that a bootlegger is "the bar that walks like a man."

It's easy to tell when summer comes. Look at the funny names of the new soft drinks.

A new political party is without a name; but the others will soon begin calling it some.

Wouldn't these foreign countries be rich if they could spend all the money they are making?

Thought for Today

The heart sometimes grows jealous of itself, and is fearful of being glad. We check the signs of returning joyfulness; we keep about us the signs of woe. This must not be. Every impulse toward returning happiness is of God.—George Dawson.

A Word a Day

Today's word is invective. It's pronounced—in-vek-tiv, with accent on the second syllable. It means—a denunciation, an accusation, opprobrium, censure, rebuke, harsh words. It comes from Latin "involvere," to carry or bring against. It's used like this—"Alugh invective is exchanged in senate debates."

Can't Put It in 10 Words

A telegraph company has a book of sample messages appropriate for any occasion. They range all the way from "Merry Christmas" to "As the warm sunshine of spring has newly decked the earth with flowers, with tender buds and fresh young green, so may your heart be filled with sunshine, bringing forth blossoms of happiness and contentment."—New York Evening Post.

Saved by Accident

"Why have I never married?" the old bachelor said in reply to a leading question. "Well, once upon a time, in a crowd, I trod on a lady's gown. She turned furiously, beginning, 'You clumsy brute! Then she smiled sweetly, and said, 'O, I beg your pardon! I thought you were my husband! No, it really doesn't matter in the least.' And when I came to think it over, I decided that maybe I'd just as well let marriage alone."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Smart Little Daughter

Little daughter was sitting one evening on her father's knee. She had a new little brother, whom she regarded with wonder, as children do regard the latest usurper before they have learned to love him. "Today," said her father, "a man offered to give me a whole roomful of gold for little brother. Shall I sell him?" The child shook her head. "But," said the father, "think what nice things a roomful of gold could buy! Don't you think I'd better let the man have him?" "No," answered the little girl thoughtfully. "Let's keep him till he's older; he'll be worth more then."

A Sleep Fender

They were discussing that ever vexing question—the question of getting up in the morning. "I don't think," said Frederick, "that an alarm clock is any good at all. I hear the bell of my alarm clock, every morning, and simply lay my hand on the nearest thing I can pick up and hurl something or other at the clock. I am constantly paying for new alarm clocks, but they only rouse me for a minute, and I go to sleep again." "I've got a new kind of alarm clock," reported Charlie. "I don't know how long it will last, but it is simply doing fine work at present." "How does it differ from others?" "It toots just like a motor horn. As soon as I hear it I jump out of bed to avoid being run over by a three-ton truck."—Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegraph.

The Mountain Girl

Life ripens swiftly in these lonely hills,
Ripens, then hangs long-withered on the bough.
Out of their sullen hatches, relentless wills,
And musty lovers, youth burgeons fierce and strong,
Ready for life when life has scarce begun;
Eager to spend its all and then be done.

So, as I gaze at Dorothea now,
Windblown against the cabin's side,
Defiant, flushed, with bodice blowing wide,
And rain-soaked homespun skirt that
The cold, strong, ardent curves of womanhood;
My exultation winces into pain.

Youth, splendid, careless racing with the rain,
Laughing against the storm as it roars by,
And yet, perhaps when I pass by again,
Hid from the heat of weather she will be
One of the sunken, burned-out lives
Here where the mountain's shoulder to the sky.

So, as the storm goes smashing down the range,
Striding white fire from the smitten hills,
Swelling over falls and streams until it fills
The ooze with giant's music, wild and strange,
The beach she sends across the shaken air
Whines sudden tears; its very triumph
Of beauty so intense it cannot last
Beyond this transient day of fragile things.

That laugh you, like a wind from between whips,
And then are gathered up into the night.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

With the marking off of Merrimack Square with white lines for the betterment of traffic conditions comes a good starter for the Eastern Massachusetts street railway. According to Mike, he was standing at his post, shortly after 7 o'clock, one morning, when he noticed a man start to walk across the street from Green's corner to The Sun Building. Mike noticed that the man made several starts across, using the white line to walk on, but that he stopped and backed to the curb several times. Finally the man got what Mike thought a good start, and as he got to Mike he said, "Nice, it's pretty hard to get across this street now." Mike got a whiff of the man's body, and went on his way. "Well, I've tried to keep on this white line but every time I get part way over I see that some one from the other side has a better start and I have to go back."

Mike took another sniff and said, "Well, you don't have to walk on the white line; all you get up and walk in between them."

"Zat so," the man replied, "Gint's a cliche, anyone can keep between 'em." Whereupon Mike, almost under the influence of the stranger's breath, turned to throw another switch, blew his whistle and allowed his thoughts to dwell on Tewksbury for a minute.

Mr. William L. Gookin is receiving many compliments for the wonderful success of the musical program carried out at the Immaculate Conception church on Sunday evening in connection with the beautiful and impressive service entitled "The Seven Last Words of Christ." The composition by Dubois, although very difficult, was rendered with splendid success; the entire program as printed in Saturday's Sun having been rendered with great devotion and effect by the augmented choir, ably assisted by the organ accompaniments, played by Hugh Walker. The soloists appeared to excel their former efforts. Mr. Gookin's solo in the Fourth Word—"My God, My God, Why Has Thou Forsaken Me?" seemed to touch the climax of the service and also the highest point of excellence in the musical rendition. The other soloists, without exception, rendered their parts with splendid effect and the overpowering swell of the chorus and organ resounded through the Gothic arches of the stately edifice and seemed to lift the vast congregation heavenward on wings of ecstatic melody and praise.

Some young ladies of my acquaintance about town strenuously object to being referred to as "flappers." The term "flapper" is supposed to apply to young ladies who carry styles to the extremes. Rakish headpieces, rolled stockings, short skirts and powder and paint are some of the characteristic marks of the original "flapper." These young ladies claim they have a perfect right to wear the latest style clothes, they point out that to do otherwise classifies them as being behind the times. It would appear that these objectors are correct in certain respects. They need have no fear of being termed "flappers" as long as their clothes conform to the accepted rules of modesty. Clothes can be worn modestly and still be considered stylish and ladies who follow the rules need have no fear of being called "flappers."

Baseball is coming along fast and within a week will be in full swing. The major leagues open today and they all have made plans for long schedules. I notice that the youngsters of the city are taking advantage of every available space to stage baseball games. One place they should keep out of and that is the public highway. There is too much danger for them to be playing where vehicles are going by and where the traffic is fairly heavy. Yesterday I noticed groups playing in the roads of Centralville, right in sections where the traffic is unusually heavy. A few accidents resulting from this, but it would seem to me the old adage of "a stitch in time saves nine" should be observed and serve as a safety first precaution. There are plenty of large fields and open spaces for the boys.

It will be well if a great number of auto drivers heed the warning issued in district court recently by Justice Freeman J. Enright relative to reckless driving. With the coming of warm weather the autos are becoming thicker and thicker than the proverbial bees. And these would-be Barney Oldfields seem to be taking more chances than they ever did. It has got so now that it is almost impossible to get across the streets of the city without taking a chance of being run down by some reckless auto driver. A great many drivers seem to know little more about operating their machines than the fact that one lever means go and another means stop. Not only for the safety of others but for the safety of themselves, auto drivers better be careful. Judge Enright intimated that reckless drivers would be given the highest penalty the law allows. Registrar of Motor Vehicles Goodwin promises to do the rest.

Spring is surely here. Yesterday the electric-car water wagon made its initial appearance on the main streets. Decked out in a coat of fresh paint and with plenty of fresh water aboard this layer-of-dust cart started out early and worked late. It's appearance on the streets was a sign for the passer-by to give it a wide berth as from the nozzles plenty of "wet" water beached forth in a strong stream. I noticed that one woman, wearing a white skirt, stood too near the curb as the car went by. Now someone's going to have an extra bit of washing to do.

The Marguerite Fields company players made many friends during their stay at the Opera House this winter. The management of the theatre and Miss Fields left no stone unturned to produce the very best plays possible. That Lowell theatre-going folk appreciated their combined efforts is attested by the manner in which the productions were patronized. Looking back over the time from Christmas when the company opened to its closing performance last Saturday night, not a poor show was produced. Naturally there were some offerings which made bigger hits than others; this is always the case. But as a general rule the reports on all the shows came out the "very good." It is hoped that this company will return here next fall, for if it does the public may rest assured that it would have the opportunity of seeing some fine plays well played.

BERTON BRALEY'S DAILY POEM

They're wearing 'em short in Manhattan.
In spite of Parisian decrees,
They're wearing 'em brief in Chicago.
Just barely concealing the knees;
They're notably short in Havana.
Or that's what I seem to recall.
But they're wearing 'em shorter in Texas.
That anywhere else at all!

Boast not of the dappers of Gotham
Or those of the Florida coast,
For down in the land of the longhorns
They'll laugh at your mightiest boast!
The girls roll a mean silken stocking,
A fact which is mentioned to show
They've flapper flappers in Texas
Than any place else I know.

Of bob-haired and up-to-date maidens
This state has a plentiful stock,
But nobody worries about 'em
Short skirts remain wholly in fashion
Through spring, summer, winter and fall.
For they're wearing 'em shorter in Texas
Than any place else at all.

GOV. COX SAYS CRIME MUST BE STOPPED

BOSTON, April 12.—Governor Cox issued a statement yesterday afternoon declaring that there is "too much crime and violence in Massachusetts" and asserting that "it must be stopped." He deplores the number of shooting affrays, urges full enforcement of prohibition laws and points out to the courts "the necessity of firmer treatment of criminals."

The governor asks, "Is it too much to expect that small doses of jail or prison may not be made an effective substitute for the system of fines and filing now in force?"

The governor told the state house newspapermen he had issued the statement in view of the many shootings that have occurred in cases where persons carrying payrolls or guarding money have been robbed and policemen shot down in the performance of their duty.

The legislative committee on public safety has under consideration at present a bill providing that a person must secure a permit before purchasing a revolver or pistol and that a record of possession of the weapon must be kept with the department of public safety.

ALLIED DEBT COMMISSION

Formally Completed Through Confirmation by Senate of Smoot and Burton

Entrusted With Conversion of Allied Debts to U. S. Into Long Time Securities

WASHINGTON, April 11.—The allied debt refunding commission created by congress and entrusted with conversion into long time securities the debts of the allied nations to the United States, was formally completed today through confirmation by the senate of the nomination of Senator Smoot of Utah and Representative Burton of Ohio, republicans, as members of the committee.

WASHINGTON.—Probably the greatest financial undertaking ever begun by any government will be the task of the allied debt refunding commission in conducting negotiations with twenty different nations for the refunding or conversion into long time securities of the more than $11,333,000,000 due the United States on its war time loans.

Most of the debts are in the form of demand obligations bearing interest at 6 per cent given by foreign governments as security for war loans. Others are in the form of notes for supplies and materials furnished by the United States. The commission is to effect the transfer of all these obligations of maturities not exceeding 25 years and bearing interest at not less than 4 1/2 per cent.

It has been indicated at the treasury, however, that circumstances in connection with negotiations with individual governments may require special authority from congress in working out some of the funding details such as the interest rate to be paid.

All but three of the foreign debtor countries—Cuba, Greece and Nicaragua—are in arrears of interest. This back interest totals $1,153,000,000 and for its annual payment arrangements also are to be made under the funding plan. By a mutual understanding interest on war loans was deferred for a period of three years which expires in April so that interest on the debts will become payable in October when the first semi-annual instalments would be due.

According to the treasury's latest figures the twenty debtor nations owe the United States on all war-time obligations, including those held by the United States Grain Corporation, a total of $11,333,000,000 of which $10,150,134,150 is principal and $1,182,865,849 interest accrued and unpaid.

Interest amounting to $439,813,173 has been paid by thirteen of the debtor nations on various obligations but no interest payments have been made by Armenia, Austria, Estonia, Hungary, Lithuania or Nicaragua, although in the case of the last named country no interest is due on its notes until their maturity.

Great Britain, France and Italy, combined, owe more than $10,000,000,000 of the total indebtedness due this country. The smallest bill is against Liberia who owes a total of $25,218.85.

Under the present circumstances, according to high treasury officials, it is not expected that funding negotiations will be opened with Russia owing to

TO EX-SERVICE MEN ARMED WITH "BILLIES"

MacNider Urges Men From Country to Go Back to Home Town and Get a Job

INDIANAPOLIS, April 11.—Ex-service men of the country were asked to go back to their home town and get a job, in an appeal which Hanford MacNider, national commander of the American Legion today asked the Associated Press to broadcast to the jobless veterans who he said, are congregating in the larger cities, where the unemployment situation is becoming worse. The legion's effort to find employment for the 700,000 jobless ex-service men began three weeks ago, is gaining in effectiveness, Mr. MacNider said.

The legion's advice, he declared, is: "Get back home. Get back among your own comrades. Get back among the people who have watched you grow from boyhood to manhood, and who naturally feel the greatest gratitude toward you for your service in the war. Back with the home folks lies your chance of honest, profitable employment among friends. Among strangers you cannot expect to be treated other than as a stranger. Other things being equal the boy from home will always be preferred and the stranger will be passed by."

PAWTUCKET, R. I., April 11.—Six workers or strike sympathizers were arraigned in the district court here today on charges growing out of the strike revelling. Two of the men, Manuel Montelro and Lewis Greto, were workers who were charged with carrying "billies" concealed on their persons. On their pleading guilty, Judge Tuck said "natural instinct is self-preservation. I can understand how people going to work can fear assault and will carry a weapon to defend themselves. If you are in danger you will carry a weapon in hand. There is no law that I know of against carrying a weapon in your hand, but there is one against carrying one concealed on your person." He suspended sentence until June 4.

SHIP LINES SHIFT TO SAFE ROUTES

WASHINGTON, April 11.—Steamship traffic in the North Atlantic will be moved 60 miles south of the present double steamship lane through the ice danger zone of the Grand Banks under advisory instructions sent out by the hydrographic office. The east-bound traffic to Europe made the change, effective last Saturday. The westbound lane will move April 15.

It was decided last Saturday by the steamship lines that the shift would be desirable at this time, although there has been as yet no menace of icebergs in the ship lanes.

The berg which sank the Titanic made its appearance in the steamship tracks on April 12, the disaster occurring on the night of that date. Navy officials generally were pleased at the attitude of the lines this year in deciding to switch to the safe routes without awaiting for the ice to compel such action.

Rotarians Hear Address on Business Management and Organization Development

Mr. R. C. Hay, assistant to the director of publicity and sales of the National Amalgam and Chemical company, was the speaker at the weekly noon-day meeting of the Lowell Rotary club today, in the quarters of the Lowell Boys' club in Dutton street.

After an excellent luncheon had been served, the new president, J. L. Hutchins Parker, called the meeting to order, and introduced Mr. Hay as the principal speaker. Mr. Hay talked interestingly on business management and organization development.

The Rotary club, said Mr. Hay, is one of the most important organizations in the country for developing business and promoting its growth. It brings men together and gives them an opportunity to develop ideas much better than in the ordinary club. He spoke of the conduct of today's meeting, saying that although there was a considerable amount of joviality indulged in it merely typified a new element in business.

A business executive of today does not sit, necessarily, behind a large mahogany desk, with 20 or more subordinates to answer his subordinate. The executive of 1922 is more likely to be found working in his shirt sleeves, literally sweating blood over his own business.

Mr. Hay briefly reviewed some of the incidents in 1920, when the great business depression began. He told of Wanamaker's work in shaking down his business; working down prices on goods and lending the procession in the new movement. This was in May, 1920, and other business men thought Wanamaker had lost his reason, but the deluge came in June of the same year and there is still lots of water going over the dam, and will continue to be for some time. Wanamaker is an old man, said the speaker, but he still knows his business. Speaking on the development of an organization, Mr. Hay said that Wanamaker developed his by picking certain men in his employ according to their fitness, character was the first requirement, then health, and then intelligence. Added to these qualifications was training in business. Mr. Hay referred to his own business and the methods by which a demand was created in this part of the country. People wanted color, but in order to place the product before them the company did not hire cheap men but went over the situation and made out their plan of campaign. The subordinates were able to attend to the details after instruction. "Brain energy" is the real thing, said Mr. Hay. He pointed out that one hour of the executive's time is worth a week of the employee's. This is the result of brain energy. Remarkable on firms which have unexpectedly gone under in the business depression, he said this means a lot to all business men. If a customer falls up, it is bound to hurt. A customer of the firm he was with some time ago went under suddenly, and his company had to "scratch gravel" in the credit department, going over the accounts and rearranging them according to financial standing. He said that everything connected with business seems to be drifting toward the old New England principle: "This is your own business, you must work on it and you must sweat your blood on it." Mr. Hay said that success or failure does not rest on past records but in value of merchandising and price. Business judgment and selling ability are therefore very necessary. The country will have to face this situation in the next ten years, so that it behooves the business man to organize his business, keep building it up, develop his employees and create a loyal feeling that will mean much in the end.

BUILDING ALTERATIONS STRIKERS HEAR
MISS KELLEHER

Church Property Recently Purchased by K. of C. to Be Completely Renovated

Woman Organizer From Pennsylvania Addresses
Local Textile Strikers

Number of Pickets Increased at the Bay State Cotton Corporation

Late yesterday afternoon the committee in charge of the new Knights of Columbus building, formerly the First Trinitarian church and the quarters of the Lowell Community service project, accepted detailed plans for the alteration and renovation of the property, as submitted by Architect Henry L. Rourke. These plans call for complete renovation of the building, and within a few days bids will be called for and submitted to the committee, with the idea of getting the work started within two weeks.

The basement of the building, according to the plans submitted and approved, will be equipped with shower baths and toilets, with a complete renovation of the section. The ground floor will be used for general quarters for the council, with billiard and pool rooms, parlors, library, general club rooms, coat rooms and lavatories. On the floor above will be the assembly hall with ante-rooms, check room, ladies' room and gentlemen's room. On the third floor there will be rooms for the officers of the council and the K. of C. Guild. A large gymnasium and the choir loft and balcony now in place will be removed, and suitable equipment installed throughout the building.

Bids for the renovation and alteration work will be advertised for by Architect Rourke through the local papers, and will be open to general local competition. The work is to be done under a general contract, which will include masonry, carpenter work and plastering, and under separate contracts for plumbing, electrical work, heating and painting.

The Genoa club corporation, the holding body of the local council, bought the property, recently occupied by the American Legion, some time ago, and the council will move from its present quarters in the Associated building as soon as the new quarters are in readiness to receive it.

Miss Mary Kelleher of Scranton, Pa., an organizer for the United Textile Workers of America, addressed a mass meeting of local textile strikers in Trades and Labor hall, Central street, this afternoon. Miss Kelleher, who has spent some time in Lawrence, told the people of conditions existing in that city since the big textile strike went into effect, and she also reviewed conditions in Lowell. Yesterday afternoon the strikers were addressed by Hugh J. Glover of New York, general agent for the United Hatters of America.

It was announced at the meeting that the force of pickets at the plant of the Bay State Cotton Corp. had been increased considerably and late yesterday when the operatives of that mill ceased work there were no less than 200 men and women doing picket duty in the vicinity of the plant.

President John Hanley of the Lowell Textile Council wishes through The Sun to extend his thanks to the working men and women for their liberal donations towards the strike fund. He said the young women who are asking for donations on the streets of the city with boxes, are meeting with a generous response in all districts.

It was also announced that the women who are on strike will receive their weekly benefit strike headquarters at the home of Mrs. Annie Reagan, treasurer of the strike committee, will be on hand to distribute checks.

ANOTHER LAWRENCE MILL REPORTED CLOSED

LAWRENCE, April 12.—About 100 pickets were on duty in the vicinity of the Andia mills this morning and according to Organizer Francis J. Toroman of the United Textile Workers of America, very few were allowed to go to work. There were few pickets in other sections and, as was the case yesterday, it was not apparent that many went to work in the mills where strikes have been called.

It was unofficially learned today that the Katagami mills employing about 350 have shut down, owing to the present situation. Officials of the mill when asked if the report were true, refused either to confirm or deny it.

Organizer Toroman of the U.T.W. said the report that committees of workers had been sent to Lynn and Peabody to arrange for tag days for the benefit of the local strikers. Similar collections will be taken in other cities later, he said.

It was announced that a local shoe dealer had contributed 62 pairs of babies' shoes which the strike committee will distribute as needed.

LIQUOR RAID IN NORTH STREET

A 25-gallon still, 1½ gallons of "shine," two barrels of mash and a quantity of beer were the spoils resulting from a raid by local and federal liquor agents at the home of Mary Souza, 25 North street, this forenoon.

On entering the house the officers found two men, who claimed they are boarders there, seated at a table upon which was a large bottle of moonshine and a small liquor glass, partly filled. These, also, are on exhibition at the station.

Sergeant Michael H. Winn and Officer Alfred Cooney of the local squad and Federal Officers Bowers and Slickney constituted the raiding party.

AUTO THIEF HAD KEY TO GARAGE

A Dori 5-pass. touring car, with the uniform green body, bearing the Mass. registration number 184,481, was stolen from a garage at the corner of Perkins and Tucker streets late last night or early this morning. There is a padlock on the door of the garage which is of small size, and this lock was evidently opened with a key and relocked after the machine had been taken out, for when the owner went there this morning at about 8 o'clock he found his car in the garage in working order. The police are working on the case, and the opinion has been expressed that someone who knew the garage pretty well is responsible for the theft.

THOMPSON CANDIDATES BEATEN IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, April 12.—The political faction of Mayor William Hale Thompson received a blow in the primary balloting yesterday when nine of the republican candidates nominated to the 13 chief county offices were opponents of the Thompson organization.

In the recent judicial election every Thompson candidate was defeated.

Ulster and Free State Forces Sign Truce

BELFAST, April 12.—(By the Associated Press)—A truce was declared yesterday between the Ulster special constables and the Free State troops which have been in menacing proximity along the Fermanagh border between Ulster and south Ireland, it was announced here today.

The pact does not bind the supporters of Eamon de Valera, who are massing on the shores of Lough Lavin, near the town of Carrigan, where they have erected a large telescope and are keeping constant watch upon the special constables. Last evening a dozen motor cars brought reinforcements for the republicans.

LOWELL DISTRICT COURT

Church Street Storekeeper
Fined $100 on Liquor
Charge—Other Cases

William Stanlewski, a storekeeper at 163 Church street, was arraigned in the district court today charged with illegal keeping of liquor. Officers Cooney, Kilroy and Hunter of the liquor squad told of seeing at least four persons leaving the premises in a drunken condition, and on one occasion officers witnessed men drinking in a hallway off the store. On the occasion of the raid a bottle of alleged liquor, containing alcohol to the amount of about 33 per cent, was found hidden in the store, together with a bottle said to contain medicine of some sort.

The defense entered a plea of not guilty on the ground that the contents of the bottle were a mixture of grape juice and whiskey which the defendant was using to remove the strong taste from a bottle of medicine, which had been ordered to take by Dr. Fishman. He admitted, however, that the doctor had prescribed the medicine alone, and had not recommended the mixture to go with it.

Judge Enright said that satisfactory explanation did not quite satisfy him, and on recommendation of Sergt. Winn he imposed a fine of $100, with bonds set at $3000 on appeal to superior court.

Frank Noyes and James Kennedy were charged with drunkenness and Noyes faced the additional charge, brought against him after the first complaint, of operating a motor vehicle while drunk. Noyes made an earnest plea for leniency, telling the judge that he is an ex-soldier, was gassed in France and twice for bravery. He was fined $50 and the judge refused to give him time in jail to pay the amount. Kennedy's case was placed on file, as it was his first appearance.

The court passed on cases having to do with marital troubles and after husbands and wives and other witnesses, including a mother-in-law and sister-in-law had had their say, Judge Enright continued the cases and gave some advice.

HUGE TANK SHIPPED BY ROAD TO PEABODY

This afternoon a huge tank was shipped over the road to Peabody by the Seannell & Wholey Boiler company. It was set on runners and towed by a truck. Going up the street hill on one of the top of the line was strung to the base of a telegraph pole and thus the tank was pulled forward at about one-fourth the speed of the jacking truck. The gang in charge thought they could reach Peabody sometime tonight.

FRACTURED HIS ANKLE

Joseph L. Sampson, of 237 Perry street, slipped and fell on the railroad tracks in the rear of the plant of the American Hides & Leather company shortly before 6 o'clock this afternoon and fractured his ankle. The ambulance removed him to St. John's hospital.

Beer was taxed in Egypt over 2000 years ago.

WHITE CROSSING LANES BRING GOOD RESULTS

Excellent results are being attained in Lowell by the new white crossing lanes for pedestrians. Traffic officers on duty there said today that the crossings were being very generally observed and that the work of direction has been considerably lessened.

It was noted today, also, that the white lines serve very effectively as warnings to motor car drivers and heavy street asphalt will be opened by the city paving agent Friday morning of this week at 11 o'clock. The new bids are the outcome of the controversy that took place between the mayor, the board of public service and the city engineer and it is expected that lower prices will be obtained than those secured when the previous bids were received.

EXPECT TO GET LOWER PRICES

New bids on asphalt road oil and heavy sheet asphalt will be opened by the city paving agent Friday morning of this week at 11 o'clock. The new bids are the outcome of the controversy that took place between the mayor, the board of public service and the city engineer and it is expected that lower prices will be obtained than those secured when the previous bids were received.

FOUR TENNIS COURTS AT SHEDD PARK

Four tennis courts will be ready for use at Shedd park this summer instead of the solitary court that attracted such popularity last year. Three additional courts were laid out and graded by the park department last fall and work will be begun on them next week to get them into shape for early play.

Before the single court was put in last year there was more or less sympathy relative to its usage, but before it had been in use a week, more applications were being received than could be accommodated. As a result the three new courts were built and it is expected that all four will be continuously used during the summer months.

FEWER BIRTHS THIS YEAR THAN LAST

There were 46 less births in Lowell during the first three months of this year than during January, February and March of 1921. According to figures given out today by Agent Francis J. O'Hare of the board of health, there were 721 births reported this year, against 767 last year.

The death rate per 1000 births for March of this year is considerably lower than the rate that prevailed during the corresponding month last year. This year the rate is 34.5, against 115.6 in March, 1921.

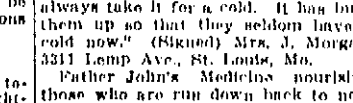

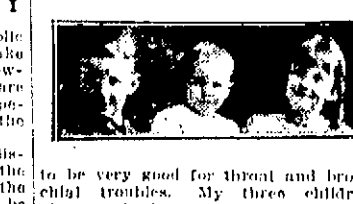

This year during the first three months, there were born 353 male and 368 female children and deaths under one year during this period, totaled 71, of which 44 were boys and 27 were girls.

SERVICE BOARD WILL MAKE TOUR OF CITY

The members of the board of public service tomorrow afternoon will make a tour of the city, viewing streets, sewers and places where edge streets are said to be needed, as covered by petitions for new work now before the board for decision.

The places to be viewed were discussed at a set of hearings held by the board a week or so ago and after the inspection tomorrow action will be taken as to the number of petitions that can be granted this year.

THE CITY PAYROLL.
The city payroll for this week totals $12,515.64, a decrease of slightly more than $1000 from the week ending last week. The decrease appears on the payroll of the department for the first time this year. Their total compensation will amount to $1265.57.

Engine and Four Cars Plunged Over Embankment Into Lake Sunapee

Heavy Rains Which Undermined Rails Given as Cause of Accident

The dead are George Atwood, Concord, engineer; Ralph Chius, Manchester, fireman; Edward Kelley, Manchester, brakeman.

MIRACULOUS ESCAPE

Five Cars of Sleepers Derailed at River's Edge, Near Danbury, Vt.

BURLINGTON, Vt., April 12.—Five cars of the New York sleeper leaving here at 11:05 last night were derailed near Danbury, south of Rutland, shortly after midnight. None of the passengers was injured, although many received a bad shaking up. The sleeping coaches, of which there were three, stayed on the rails.

The accident was caused by the heavy rainstorm of yesterday afternoon and evening. The tracks where the accident happened were covered with water to a depth of over two inches. As the track runs along the Otter creek in this section it is considered by officials to have been miraculous that the derailed cars escaped going into the river.

Strenuous efforts are being made to repair the damage but train service south of Rutland is tied up and it is not known when the first train over the road will be run.

CITY MAKES OFFER OF $20,000 FOR THE FIRST STREET OVAL

Tentative Offer for Purchase of Oval From Locks & Canals Co. Is Made Through Park Commissioners—Company Prefers Seizure Proceedings by the City as Method of Acquirement

The city of Lowell, through the board of park commissioners, today made a tentative offer to the Locks and Canals Co. of $20,000 for the purchase of the First street oval and adjacent land between Read and Llewellyn streets.

Following a conference at 10 o'clock between the mayor, members of the park commission and Arthur T. Safford, chief engineer of the Locks and Canals, at which the mayor suggested that a tentative offer of $20,000 be made, the park board held a special meeting and voted to instruct the superintendent to make the offer in writing to the Locks and Canals.

It is now understood that a loan order for $20,000 will be introduced into the city council at the special meeting to be held tomorrow night. The order will be in anticipation of acceptance of the offer on the part of the owners of the land. Such an order is necessary before the park commissioners can make an absolute offer as to the price of purchase.

If the city eventually purchases the land, the Locks and Canals will retain a 50-foot strip along the river bank, in keeping with its river rights. There is a 50-foot strip running through the land throughout its length that the Locks and Canals has granted the city without cost for the purpose of a boulevard.

It cannot be anticipated what action the Locks and Canals will take on the tentative offer of $20,000, as Engineer Safford said that he will have to take it up with the officers of the company for their consideration. It is well known that the company has looked with favor upon seizure proceedings by the city as a method of acquirement and as such a scheme would net the company several thousands of dollars more than acceptance of the tentative offer, considerable discussion may transpire before definite word is received.

"BIG FRESHET" IS PREDICTED

High Water Records for the Last Nine Years Broken in Connecticut River Valley

Government Flood-Warning Received at Springfield This Morning

SPRINGFIELD, April 12.—With high water records for the last nine years broken in the upper reaches of the Connecticut river, government flood warning was received here today saying that heavy rains north had swollen the river nearly to the 27-foot stage at White River Junction, Vt., and predicting a "big freshet." At Bellows Falls, Vt., today, the river had risen three feet since last night, and a further rise of eight inches, it was said, would flood a tunnel on the Boston & Maine lines and force a detour of train service. Trolley service between Northampton and Holyoke is cut off by the flooding of the highway. In this city the river stood more than 17 feet above low water, which is higher than the 1920 mark when the steel bridge at Brattleboro, Vt., was swept away.

Main Highway Inundated
ST. JOHNSBURY, Vt., April 12.—The Passumpsic river reached its highest point today.

MERRIMACK RIVER RISING

Melting Snows Up-Country Have Greatly Increased Volume of Water

Merrimack Assumes Freshet But Not Flood Proportions—Concord River Normal

Like all other New England streams, the Merrimack river is flowing on toward the ocean at spring freshet proportions and today locally stood at the highest point this year, with 35,630 cubic feet of water per second spilling over the Pawtucket dam. The crest of the water is 6½ feet over the dam, showing a rise of approximately 12 feet in the last 24 hours.

Melting snows up-country have sent a greatly increased volume of water down the New Hampshire hills in the last day or two and the river still continues to rise slowly.

The river is not at flood and the Locks and Canals have no fear until

WEEKS REPLIES TO JOHNSON

Says War Dept. Doing "Everything Possible" to Clear Up War Contract Matters

Says if Congress Thinks Inquiry Advisable Department Would Welcome It

WASHINGTON, April 12.—In a formal statement replying to charges made yesterday on the floor of the house, Secretary Weeks declared today that the war department was doing "everything possible" to clear up war controversies in such a way as to fully protect the interests of the federal government.

Referring to statements that the firm of Hornblower & Weeks had been involved in sale of the Bush Magneto Co., Mr. Weeks said he had not been connected with that firm since 1913.

Referring specifically to requests for an investigation made by Representatives Johnson, nonchance, South Dakota, and Woodruff, Michigan, the secretary said that if congress thought an inquiry advisable, the war department would "welcome it."

DEATH OF GRIFFIN DUE TO HEMORRHAGE

Dr. T. B. Smith, medical examiner, stated today that the death of John J. Griffin, who was found in an unconscious state in the cellar of his home in Allen avenue on Monday, was due to a cerebral hemorrhage. Burns discovered on the arms were caused by the overturning of a pan of scalding water, which probably occurred when the attack first was felt. The burns were of a minor nature and could not have caused death, said Dr. Smith.

The scalp bruise found was the result of a fall when consciousness left him. The doctor's finding clears up what ever mystery surrounded Griffin's death, which occurred at St. John's hospital last night. The man was found in an unconscious condition on Monday and prior to that had not been seen since Saturday noon.

Miss Annie Griffin, a sister, arrived in Lowell this morning. The body has been taken to the home of Undertaker J. F. O'Donnell & Sons.

JOHNSON FLAYS SEC. WEEKS

Says Favored Men Get Surplus Property at "Criminally Low Prices"

WASHINGTON, April 12.—Charles Johnson, Republican congressman from South Dakota, today launched a slashing attack on Secretary Weeks, charging that the war department "has sold property and is today selling property at ridiculously and criminally low prices to favored customers, concealing from congress and deliberately misrepresenting the facts."

Mr. Johnson also gave the first public indication that President Harding acted on definite evidence in his recent dismissal of upwards of 30 bureau of engraving officials. He referred to "evidence" furnished by himself and other members of congress to justify the dismissal order.

Mr. Johnson's statement, upon which he would not enlarge, was made during debate on a resolution asking for investigation of war contracts.

"The chief executives do not act as he did with the bureau of engraving," he said, "when a few members of congress, including myself, presented the evidence to justify his recent action, public sentiment will demand passage of the resolution."

As "proof of the fact that the war department is misrepresenting the facts to congress," Mr. Johnson charged that a report by Secretary Weeks relative to sale of property, transmitted to the house last December was "the most fraudulent, misleading and criminally deceitful document that was ever submitted to the American congress."

Mr. Johnson declared the evidence he had obtained showed that the war department is trying to control the department of justice in putting men who ought to be in the penitentiary on the department of justice payroll and asking congress to appropriate for it.

A review of Secretary Weeks' report shows how little he actually knows of the true facts," continued Mr. Johnson. "Only a few of the thousands of false entries indicating fraudulent transactions with many favored and inside purchasers, will authorize to show the extent of the official depravity and duplicity exercised in defrauding the government, which has ever gone on without restraint since the inception of the liquidation process."

To Favored Purchasers
"Millions of dollars' worth of supplies were sold to each of a number of favored purchasers by negotiations without competitive bidding, without adequate bonds or deposits to protect the government's interests. Indefinite extensions of time granted for storage and delivery, and finally, cancellations effected to meet the convenience of these specially favored sets of grafters."

Recalling evidence developed by the Graham investigating committee, Mr. Johnson said those "who knew crimes had been committed in the name of the government" felt that with the advent of a republican administration "it would be easy to institute a further investigation." Accordingly, he said, Chairman Graham, the day after the inauguration of President Harding wrote Secretary Weeks asking that the committee be continued.

"To the latter," he said, "the secretary of war replied, 'that the day of investigation has passed.'"

"Here we have the spectacle," Mr. Johnson continued, "of the secretary of war—who is holding his position today largely because of the recent vote of the soldiers of the late war—essentially, and citizens who knew there had been graft and extravagance—taking the attitude that the time for examination has expired and refusing to co-operate with congress in developing the facts which we know were in existence."

Responsibility First on Weeks

"The responsibility must first rest upon the secretary of war and his assistants, second, upon the chief of staff and his assistants, and third, upon the bureau chiefs directly responsible. If the first two classes named say they do not know of these things this ought to be sufficient notice served upon them so that they will know of them and, upon securing that knowledge, there are no wholesale courts-martial in the military service, then I say without hesitation that the entire war department from head to foot is inexorably corrupt."

"My own judgment is that it cannot be said that the chiefs are not aware of these conditions, because the testimony shows that every one in the war department from top to bottom is trying to keep evidence from congress, the public and the department of justice."

STUDYING NEW TARIFF BILL

Chairman Fordney Says House Will Never Yield on American Valuation

WASHINGTON, April 12.—The declaration by Chairman Fordney, of the house ways and means committee, that the house never would yield on American valuation, has revived discussion of that tariff question at the capitol with opponents and proponents estimating their possible strength when the bill gets to conference between the senate and house.

Chairman Fordney is of the opinion that the conferees will attach American valuation but Senator Smoot of Utah, ranking republican on the senate finance committee, does not subscribe to this view. As the situation now stands, it would appear that the conferees would be at least seven to three against the proposition.

Senator Smoot, who made the fight for foreign valuation before the senate committee majority, says he will not vote for American valuation in the conference or anywhere else. Senator La Follette, of Wisconsin, the second ranking republican on the finance committee, voted against this valuation in the committee. Representative Green of Iowa, ranking republican on the ways and means committee, says he never has been very favorable to the principle and the four democratic conferees, two from the house, and two from the senate are counted against it.

Chairman Fordney is outspoken for American valuation. Chairman McCumber of the senate committee, and Representative Longworth of Ohio, the other two conferees, have made no statement as to their position since the senate committee majority definitely adopted foreign valuation.

Senators generally were studying today the new tariff bill as reported yesterday to the senate in preparation for the long days of controversy that are ahead on the senate floor. Several amendments to rates in the bill already have been offered from the republican side, while democratic leaders are preparing to make a general assault on many of the rates. Democrats on the finance committee have been given 10 days in which to file their minority report.

HENRY CLARK NAMED G. A. R. COMMANDER

BOSTON, April 12.—Henry Clark of Post 25, Arlington, was chosen department commander of the Massachusetts department, G. A. R., at the 56th annual state encampment yesterday. Other officers elected were George W. Pratt of Stoughton, senior vice commander, and Benjamin A. Ham of Post 2, junior vice commander. Post Commander John M. Woods was unanimously endorsed for the post of national commander.

A resolution was passed asking the United States senate to increase pensions while civil war veterans were still alive.

LEVIATHAN NOW "PRESIDENT HARDING"

WASHINGTON, April 12.—The steamer Leviathan, now being recommissioned by the shipping board at Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock plant, has been renamed "President Harding," Chairman Tinker announced yesterday.

This name was selected among the presidents. Mr. Tinker said, at the presence of Commissioners Thompson and Chamberlain.

Final selections of American presidents' names for the rest of the passenger fleet has been made, Mr. Tinker said, but the names are now being checked up with the navy and the register to see if there is any conflict.

Wisconsin farmers own 4041 motor trucks, and the efforts who have been trying to obtain the constitution and statutes have either been pushed from the review or shipped to foreign lands.

Illustrating some of the war department heresies, Mr. Johnson declared the department had sold one lot of 172,500 pounds of candy worth $14,000 to a Washington dealer on an "informal bid" for $7,000.

"This lot of candy was graded as in good condition," he said, "there was enough to fill six car loads, all high grade and it was sold at the rate of two cents a pound. The sale was made by the same officers that the secretary of war still refuses to sell surplus property."

LOWELL PUBLIC MARKET

Building Remodeled and Restocked — Mr. Willis is Heartily Congratulated

The Lowell Public Market reopened today, having been remodeled and restocked completely. The equipment of the entire place is new and comprises the latest in market fittings—ammonia pipe refrigeration for all of the new marble counters, sanitary appliances second to none, faultless scales for weighing all sales, and in fact nothing but the best throughout.

The public was pleased with the new store—for such it is. Charles F. Willis, the proprietor, was congratulated so often and so heartily that his face wore a wide smile of satisfaction.

The store was wiped out by fire on the night of Dec. 22, when it was heavily stocked with Christmas provisions. Since then, the place has been virtually rebuilt from the basement up. Everything about the place is fireproof. The store is enlarged and Mr. Willis' old customers noted this, as well as the other improvements, with pleasure. Every resource Mr. Willis could obtain was utilized in fitting up the place.

The location of the store at Merrimack Square is ideal. Mr. Willis has leased the adjoining store in Prescott street, and thus the new quarters have a floor space of about 10,000 square feet. The market's offices are located on a balcony in the rear of and overlooking the store's main floor. All of the counters are tiled and glass-protected, with ammonia pipes for refrigerating the contents of the counters. There are counters of this nature for fish, meat, groceries, fruit, vegetables, candies, pickles, butter and cheese. At each counter, there is a new set of weighing scales.

Lighting and ventilation are provided in the most improved manner. There are now three entrances to the store. All of the fittings are fireproof, and the storerooms in the basement are commodious and sanitary. Mr. Willis' old customers were delighted with the remodeled place.

Lowell university was founded in 1576 by William of Orange.

BEAUTIFUL EXHIBITION
A beautiful exhibition of wild flower plates is at present being shown at the city library, embracing 164 different wild flowers of New York state. City Librarian Frederick Chase secured the exhibition plates from the New York state museum. They were published as a part of that organization's last report, and later were bound in pamphlet form so that they might easily be seen and shown.

McMAHON SCORES PAWTUCKET MILL

Refusal to Treat With Employees Not Due to Pressing Needs of Business

Declares Company Made Profits of Over $10,000,000 in Five Years

PAWTUCKET, R. I., April 12.—The Jenckes Spinning company, one of the few cotton plants in Rhode Island that has been able to survive the strike against lower wages and increased hours, was the subject of a statement today by President Thomas E. McMahon, of the United Textile Workers of America. He said the concern has trebled in value in the past five years. "This strike in Pawtucket has taken its toll of human life," the statement said. "Had the Jenckes Spinning company been willing to negotiate with the textile workers here, on the basis of fair treatment for the company and fair treatment for the workers, there would have been no bloodshed in the Pawtucket strike; there might even have been no Pawtucket strike."

"Is the refusal of the Jenckes company to negotiate with workers or to arbitrate the difference, due to the pressing needs of the business? Hardly. In the five years between July 1, 1916, and July 1, 1921, the Jenckes Spinning company made total profits well over $10,000,000.

"During this five years the profits averaged 77 per cent a year on the full face value of the common stock in addition to the fixed rate of 7 per cent which was paid on the preferred stock.

"During this five year period, the company has paid two stock dividends, one of 20 per cent in 1917, and one of 100 per cent in 1920. The first made a gift of $300,000 of stock to the stockholders, raising the common stock from $1,500,000 to $1,800,000. In 1920, another gift of $300,000 was made to stockholders, raising the common stock from $1,800,000 to $2,100,000. In spite of these two gifts to stockholders totalling more than $600,000 in face value, profits have averaged 77 per cent on this inflated capitalization.

"During these five years, the profits have averaged 23 per cent a year on the full value of the business—the capital stock and surplus combined. And in 1921 the 'bad' year which made the wage cut 'necessary' the company made profits sufficient to have paid 15 per cent on the inflated common stock, in addition to its regular 7 per cent dividend on the preferred stock.

"On the basis of the capitalization of $1,500,000, as it stood in 1916, before the $2,100,000 of stock was given away, the Jenckes Spinning company has made profits for the past five years averaging 140 per cent per year.

"That is, during the past five years, the textile workers who made the Jenckes products have received wages low enough, and the customers who bought the Jenckes' products have paid prices high enough to yield more than profit enough to have bought control of the Jenckes Spinning Co., each year of the five by paying $140 per share for every share of the $1,500,000 of common shares (per $100) outstanding in 1916.

"The value of the concern owned by the stockholders is now nearly three times as great as five years ago. This fact is shown by the increase of the net worth of the corporation (capital and surplus combined) from less than $5,000,000 in 1917, to nearly $14,500,000 in 1921.

"Yet the Jenckes Spinning Co. decides that wages must be lower and hours longer.

"That is the textile workers' reward for contributing to five years of fabulous profits."

Statistics upon which the statements were based, compiled by the Labor Bureau, Inc., were attached, the statement added.

LEATHER WORKERS' STRIKE

The leaders of the leather workers strike had nothing to offer in the line of news this morning. The cars of coal that have been on the spur tracks of the American Hide & Leather company for several weeks have not yet been unloaded. The strikers are still ready to confer with the officials of the company and they are awaiting an invitation on the part of their employers.

City Truck Slips Over First Street Dump Into Merrimack River

STREET DEPARTMENT TRUCK AFTER PLUNGE

Michael Brown, a truck driver in the employ of the city street department, narrowly escaped a plunge into the cold and swift moving waters of the Merrimack river yesterday noon, when the Northway truck he was operating slipped back off the bank on the First street fell into eight feet of water. Brown jumped as he felt the loose bank begin to slide and fortunately his feet struck on firm ground.

It was not until six hours later, or early last evening, that the truck was pulled from the water. A steam roller first was run onto the fill, but two chains were broken in the attempt to raise the truck. Finally two Mack trucks were secured from John Brady and the combined traction was sufficient to pull the Northway from the water.

The submerged truck was not damaged to any great extent.

Maine railroad in a statement today regarding the drowning of three employees when the engine and five cars of a freight train on the Claremont branch went into Lake Umbagog, said the accident was due to a soft spot in the roadbed caused by recent rains.

The train was running along the shore of the lake at about 25 miles an hour speed, it was said, when the engine lurched over half a mile west of the Sunapee station. Five cars went along with it, piling on top of the locomotive. In the latter were Engineer G. W. Atwood, Fireman Ralph Ching and E. J. Kelley, head brakeman. Four cars behind, including the caboose, stayed on the roadbed, although derailed. Frank C. Wood and E. A. Houtwell, brakemen who were among those in the cabooses, were slightly injured.

The wreck tied up the line, and it was necessary to transfer passengers around it.

Heavy Rainfall

BOSTON, April 12.—Three persons are dead at Sunapee, N. H., and rivers are bank full at several points in northern New England as a result of a heavy rain storm that swept that section last night.

The Merrimack, Pemigewasset and Piscataquis rivers in New Hampshire, were at high stages, but flood conditions were not regarded as immediately menacing. Part of the dam on the Piscataquis went out last night at Wears, N. H., releasing water that quickly flooded Gray's top factory at East Wears.

The Connecticut river, in its course through southern Vermont and western Massachusetts was at flood stage at several points. It was reported at the highest level in seven years at Springfield, while at Bellows Falls, Vt., more than 20 feet of water was going over the dam.

Weather bureau officials said the heaviest rain was at Burlington, Vt., where the precipitation was .92 of an inch. The fall at Northfield, Vt., was .83 inches. The storm did not approach flood proportions in any part of New England, it was said, although the rain was generally heavy in Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont.

NAVAL AVIATION POST QUITS AMERICAN LEGION

NEW YORK, April 2.—The naval aviation post of the American Legion with 200 members, displeased at the attitude of the Legion on the bonus question, has surrendered its Legion charter and reorganized as the Naval Aviators' club, an independent organization, it was learned today.

The club is composed exclusively of young men who enlisted in the naval flying service at the outbreak of the war, and most of its members are listed in the social register. Many came out with honors and promotions and the majority now are members in the officers' reserve corps.

WEEKS PREPARES REPLY TO JOHNSON

WASHINGTON, April 12.—Secretary Weeks, after consultation with President Harding today, prepared a formal statement replying to charges against the war department, made on the floor of the house yesterday by Representative Johnson, republican, South Dakota. It was indicated that the reply probably would be made public late today. The charges involve among other things allegations of favoritism in sales of surplus materials.

U. S. Shipyards Building 136,800 Tons

NEW YORK, April 12.—American shipyards are now building 136,800 gross tons of shipping; 8000 tons less than were in the yards on July 1, 1914, said a statement issued today by Lloyds. World shipping in general, is rapidly reverting to the pre-war scale, the statement continues, with Great Britain reporting 500,000 tons more work in hand than in the pre-war period. A decrease of 40 per cent in work in hand, has been reported for American yards in the past three months, and in April 1919 the United States yards were building 4,188,000 tons, or more than the rest of the world's yards combined.

Frustrates Attempt to Burn House

CENTRAL FALLS, R. I., April 12.—Patrolman Collette believes he frustrated an attempt to burn up a house in which 10 workers employed by the Jencks Spinning Co., were sleeping. Early today he noticed fire in a house in Sprague avenue. He says he believes some person had broken a window, thrust a stick to which was attached a quantity of rags soaked with gasoline and the flames had spread to some furniture. Failing to arouse the residents he got three buckets of water and put out the fire. A bottle that had contained gasoline was found near the building. The Jencks mills are among those affected by the textile strike in this state.

NAVAL BUDGET DEBATE

Leaders of Both Sides Confident of Winning on Big Point at Issue

WASHINGTON, April 12.—As the house proceeded with its third and last day of general debate on the 1922 naval budget, leaders urging and opposing an enlisted strength of 45,000 claimed votes enough in eight today to win on a straight test on the big point at issue. This may not be reached until next week.

Opposing an "insurgent" party fight to increase the total to 40,000. Chairman Madden of the appropriations committee and Chairman Kelly of the sub-committee in charge of the measure, estimated this would add $20,000,000 to the bill's total of $233,000,000 for men alone. They contended, however, that this would represent only a small part of the increased cost, "inasmuch as 80,000 men and 8000 apprentices would call for enlarged shore activities to keep that many at work."

Representatives Rogers of Massachusetts; Britten, Illinois; McArthur, Oregon and other republicans in charge of the fight for 80,000 declared pledges had been received from a sufficient number of members to defeat the committee figure. Some predicted there would be between 130 and 200 votes against the 45,000 limitation, but leaders on the other side who are standing by the committee asserted the bill would go through the house substantially as framed.

DAUGHERTY SAYS U. S. TO WATCH COAL PARLEYING

INDIANAPOLIS, April 12.—Ending conferences of two days with federal officials here, Atty. Gen. Daugherty announced tonight that the government would not permit coal operators and miners at any wage conference to repeat acts which, he said, had brought on the federal indictments here charging conspiracy to monopolize the coal industry in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

"A little more consideration," he said, "will be given by the government in connection with whatever agreement, if any, is entered into, while the negotiations are taking place. This may prevent embarrassment and proceedings afterwards."

Mr. Daugherty's statement was made at the conclusion of his mission here dealing with possibilities for ending the strike. On leaving last night for Washington he declared he was "perfectly satisfied," and announced he planned further conferences bearing on the situation.

Gussie Humann Sentenced For Perjury

NEW YORK, April 12.—Gussie Humann, convicted last week of perjury in her testimony at the recent murder trial of her sweetheart, Joseph Libasci, was sentenced today by Supreme Court Justice Lewis in Long Island City, to not less than seven years and six months and not more than 15 years, in Auburn prison.

SOVIET DELEGATION STAGGERED AND AMAZED

GENOA, April 12.—(By the Associated Press)—The Russian soviet delegation to the economic conference is staggered and amazed at the sweeping political changes in the soviet government suggested in the report of the allied experts on Russia, now before the sub-commission entrusted with formulating plans for Russian reconstruction.

Lenine, Trotzky, Chitchev and others of the Bolshevik leaders have repeatedly said that the recognition of Russia's old debts would be a subject for negotiations looking toward the recognition of the soviet republic. The demands embodied in the report for general recognition of the rights of personal property and better protection for foreigners contemplate changes in the soviet government, however, which would in the opinion of the Russian delegation, as expressed today, wipe out communism utterly and impair the sovereignty of the Russian government.

M'MAHON SATISFIED WITH SITUATION

LAWRENCE, April 12.—Thomas F. McMahon, president of the United Textile Workers of America, asserted last night that the strike situation throughout New England was more favorable to the strikers this week than at any previous time. He left the city last night for Pawtucket but said he would return Thursday.

Ben Legere, leader of the One Big Union, said yesterday that plans were under way for a parade of strikers and sympathizers on April 19 to celebrate Patriots day and the 73d anniversary of the founding of the city of Lawrence.

WOOLWORTH & CO. DIVIDEND
NEW YORK, April 12.—Directors of F. W. Woolworth & Co. today declared an extra dividend of $2 a share on common stock, in addition to the regular quarterly dividend of $2 a share. Both dividends are payable June 1 to stockholders of record May 1. C. B. Winslow was elected superintendent of buying to replace the late A. Abbot Hepburn.

PARDON DENIED
CONCORD, N. H., April 12.—The governor and council today denied the petition for a pardon from state prison from James A. Tyler of Watertown, Mass. Tyler is serving a sentence of 10 years for manslaughter.

PEACE IN ATHLONE
LONDON, April 12.—A despatch to the Central News from Athlone says the leaders of both sections of the Irish republican army in conference there have reached an agreement which assures peace in that district.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

$400,000 TO PAY POLICE

Bond Issue Authorized Following Two More Murders in New York

NEW YORK, April 12.—While the police yesterday were confronted with two new murders, two gun fights and minor crimes, the board of aldermen, after listening to an attack on Police Commissioner Enright, authorized a $400,000 bond issue to pay 250 of the 1192 additional patrolmen he requested last week from the board of estimate. The attack on Mr. Enright was made by Alderman Falconer who charged that Enright was a "politician and always has been." He said that the majority of the men in the department itself have no confidence in the commissioner.

Yesterday's contest between the police and their enemies, however, was fairly sensational. The slaying of Miss Nellie Tracy, 49, was attributed to a "ripper."

John Williams, an assistant janitor in an East Eleventh street apartment, was found this morning lying in a pool of blood with his throat cut. People living in the apartment told of hearing an altercation which was followed by a scream.

A little earlier there was a shotgun fight in Brooklyn in which three alleged bandits tried to get away over back yard fences. One of their number was shot, another arrested, but the third escaped.

Yesterday afternoon persons near the foot of Bloomsfield street on the North river front were given a thrill as a sharp pistol battle was fought before them. Two men were wounded in a quarrel over trucking prices.

SAMUEL H. HINES LODGE

Two pages were initiated and one Application for membership was received at last evening's regular meeting of Samuel H. Hines lodge, 56, K. of P. The rank of esquire was conferred on several candidates by the degree team in charge of P. C. Daniel E. Starkey. It was announced that in the near future Rev. Karl P. Meister will deliver a lecture on Pythianism for both men and women.

WERE ENTERTAINED

BY LOWELL TALENT

Soldiers in the hospital at Groton were splendidly entertained Sunday afternoon by young people from this city who gave a very fine program. The entertainment was given under the auspices of the relief committee of the American Legion auxiliary, Mrs. Chas. Young, chairman; Mrs. Edward McDermott, Mrs. Paul Killbridge and Mrs. William H. Merritt.

The soldiers were more than delighted with the entertainment and they in turn made the entertainers happy by their expressions of appreciation. The program was as follows:

Song, Doris Conley; skip-along dance, Doris Clark; solo, William Kinchley; third dance, Dorothy Shesley; song, Mary MacFarland; step dance, Al Dwyer; solo, Ruel LeClair; parson's dance, Eileen Sullivan; solo, May Dittles Doherty; specialty, Doris Conley; solo, Helen Baul; selections, Mrs. Charles S. ## YOUNG GIRLS NEED CARE

Health Is Happiness

From the time a girl reaches the age of twelve until womanhood is established, she needs all the care a thoughtful mother can give.

The condition that the girl is then passing through is so critical, and may have such far-reaching effects upon her future happiness and health, that it is almost criminal for a mother or guardian to withhold counsel or advice.

Many a woman has suffered years of prolonged pain and misery resulting from having been the victim of thoughtlessness or ignorance on the part of those who should have guided her through the dangers and difficulties that beset this period.

Mothers should teach their girls what danger comes from standing around with cold or wet feet, from lifting heavy articles, and from overworking. Do not let them over-study. If they complain of headache, pains in the back and lower limbs, they need a mother's thoughtful care and sympathy.

A Household Word in Mother's House writes Mrs. Lynd, about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"My mother gave me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound when I was 14 years old for troubles girls often have and for loss of weight. Then after I married I took the Vegetable Compound before each child was born and always when I felt the least run-down. Both my sister and sister-in-law take it and have only the highest praise for it. It has been a household word in my mother's house for years."—Mrs. KATHERINE LYND, 2481 Gladys Ave., Chicago, Ill.

A Little Book Helped Her to Decide

Milwaukee, Wis.—"My daughter took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as she was so weak and did not feel like going to school. She was like that for a whole year before taking your Vegetable Compound. I found a little book of yours in our mail-box and decided to give her your medicine. She is now strong and well and attends school every day. We recommend your Vegetable Compound to all mothers with weak daughters. You may use this letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. E. KLUCZNY, 917 20th Ave., Milwaukee, Wis.

"I was always feeling tired and sleepy, was losing in weight and would faint at times. I had other troubles too, that made me feel badly. I read your little book and heard friends talk about the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done them, so I have taken it too. The results are most satisfactory for I have gained in weight and my bad symptoms are gone. I recommend your Vegetable Compound to all my friends and you may make whatever use you like of this letter."—GLORIA RAMIREZ, 1116 9th Ave., Tampa, Florida.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Allments Peculiar to Women" will be sent you free upon request. Write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Massachusetts. This book contains valuable information.

JAPAN WELCOMES PRINCE OF WALES

Thousands Extend Greeting as Royal Visitor Arrives at Yokohama

TOKIO, April 12. (By the Associated Press)—The Prince of Wales arrived here this afternoon on a special train from Yokohama and was driven in an open carriage escorted by cavalry, to the Imperial palace, where he was received by the empress. Later he went to the Akasaka palace, where he will reside while in Tokyo.

Crowds greeted the royal visitor at the railway station and cheered him along the route to the palace, over which triumphal arches had been erected.

Except for the priceless objects of art, the prince found little in the harem to interest him. He was in the center of the palace, his apartments are like a modern hotel suite, and the fittings include even a barber's chair of American make, especially installed.

The Akasaka palace adjoins the Aoyama palace, which was at one time the residence of Prince Hirohito, now the emperor. The grounds about the two palaces are most beautiful and at this time of the year, present a profusion of cherry blossoms.

Greeted at Pier
YOKOHAMA, April 12. (By the Associated Press)—The Prince of Wales arrived today for his official visit to Japan. Thousands greeted him as he landed from the British battle cruiser Renown which brought him from India. Yokohama's welcome was not noisy, as the children who lined the streets are disciplined to silence but the picture they made with their thousands of waving flags in the brilliant sunshine, could scarcely be paralleled.

The American colony was assigned to an advantageous spot from which to view the procession.

The Renown was escorted in from the Japanese light cruiser division, and in the bay six battleships, including the famous Mutsu, joined the escort. As the vessels entered the harbor, there was a roar of guns and a shrieking of whistles. Every class of society was represented in the crowds on the wharves.

ENFORCEMENT OF LAW

Atty. Gen. Allen Calls District Attorneys to Conference in Boston

BOSTON, April 12.—Attorney General J. Weston Allen today summoned the district attorneys of Massachusetts to a conference here on Saturday to discuss law enforcement. The federal attorney general's office has been asked to send a representative.

In his letter to the district attorneys Mr. Allen said:

"The conference is called for the purpose of considering the best means of meeting the present difficulties in enforcing the laws, to secure greater uniformity in the several districts, and to bring about greater co-operation between the federal law enforcement officers and the local authorities throughout the commonwealth."

LOCAL MAN SUED

BY RAILROAD

S. T. Robitaille, who does business under the name of the Bay State Baking company in this city, was the defendant in a $500 suit started in superior court today before Judge Lawton and a jury. The plaintiff in the case is the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad.

The plaintiff alleges that boxes of paper to the value of $50.00, were delivered to the defendant but were never paid for, nor the original order bill of lading, which was negotiable, surrendered to the plaintiff.

The railroad company claims it had to pay the consignee of the paper the above mentioned sum. The complete declaration embraces four counts.

The defendant's answer was a general denial to all allegations in the plaintiff's declaration and further answered the plaintiff by saying that if he ever owed him anything he has paid it in full.

Atty. A. W. Blackman of Boston for the plaintiff and Atty. Henry V. Charbonneau for the defendant.

COUNCIL MAY ACT ON MULRY NOMINATION

A call was issued today for a special meeting of the city council tomorrow, Thursday, evening at 8 o'clock, presumably for the purpose of attempting to take some action on the mayor's nomination of Edward F. Mulry as superintendent of charities.

In the natural course of events the nomination would have died a natural death before the next regular council meeting, for it was first presented to the council on March 16 and the 30-day period would expire before the regular meeting on the 19th, which is the third Thursday of the month.

It is understood that Mayor George H. Brown will place the name of Thomas J. Markham in nomination for the position of principal assessor for a term of one year. Mr. Markham has been mentioned for the place at and on for some time and is known to possess no little strength in the council. For this reason it is fair to assume that he will pass muster as the usual course of things.

ALBERT ANDERSON DIES SUDDENLY

Albert Anderson, aged 55 years, a resident of this city for the past 35 years, died last evening at St. John's hospital.

Anderson, who for the past three years had occupied a room at 511 Thayer street, was found in an unconscious condition in his room at about 1 o'clock last evening. The ambulance was summoned and the man removed to the hospital, where he died shortly after his arrival.

It was learned today that Mr. Anderson, who was employed as an elevator man at the Massachusetts mill, was taken ill about a week ago and at that time he went to the home of his daughter, Mrs. Alfred Sayres, in Everett street, and spent a few days there. He then returned to his room and on Monday evening he was visited by Mrs. Sayres, who at that time did not think his condition very serious. On Tuesday night another daughter, Miss Ida Anderson, paid him a visit and last night when Mrs. Sayres returned to her father's room she found that he had been taken to the hospital.

MANY PEOPLE HAVE BEEN CONFUSED

It has been brought to light that hundreds of men and women in Lowell and vicinity have attempted to purchase ALLEN'S LUNG HEALER, through the recommendation of friends, and because their druggist was not an agent for this preparation, they have been sold another article, similar in name but incomparable in merit to LUNG HEALER.

These people, because of the similarity in name have in many instances thought they were using ALLEN'S LUNG HEALER when such was not the case. They have not obtained the results from the substitute that they had been led to expect from the genuine.

It is most unfortunate that so many have suffered from this experience, and been disappointed. If you are one of them, please understand that there is only one ALLEN'S LUNG HEALER, made by H. J. Allen & Co. of West Lynn, Mass., and that no other cough remedy is made or sold by this concern.

In the future be sure to get LUNG HEALER and accept nothing similar in name. Look for the orange container. 60c a bottle—only one size, 6 ounces.

Anse, Que., to have drawn aside roller curtains and peeped at Beauvais and Mrs. Stillman in the bedrooms of the lodge. They said there were no roller curtains on the windows at that time, the summer of 1918. Mrs. Beauvais, however, was declared to have been uncertain on this point.

There were other points of difference between their statements and those of their neighbors who more than a year ago testified against Mrs. Stillman. The neighbors swore that Mrs. Stillman and Beauvais occupied adjoining rooms in the lodge, and that the Stillman children—Anne, Alexander and James—slept in tents outside.

Mr. and Mrs. Beauvais said there were no tents on the place at that time. The children and Mrs. Stillman occupied rooms on the ground floor, they said, and Beauvais slept upstairs. Mrs. Beauvais after identifying Fred's handwriting on three insignificant notes, however, was said to have also identified a letter in which Fred told of the tents being on the place.

Counsel for Mrs. Stillman called several French-Canadians today, to support charges that attempts to bribe witnesses to tell of such improprieties were made by J. Albert Lafontaine, alleged representative of Mr. Stillman.

ASKS SOVIET TO RECOGNIZE DEBT

Call on Government to Accept Financial Obligation of Its Predecessor

GENOA, April 12 — (By the Associated Press) — The report of the allied experts meeting in London relative to the program for the restoration of Russia and the restoration of Europe, a copy of which the Associated Press has obtained, embodies a comprehensive scheme, whereby it is hoped to bring back Europe, including Russia, to healthy prosperity. This report, marked "confidential," was handed yesterday to M. Chicherin, head of the Russian delegation, who asked until Thursday to study the preamble. It declares that the restoration of Russia depends in great part upon assistance which Russia will be able to obtain from foreign enterprise and capital, but insists that without profound transformation of the actual conditions in Russia, which affect commerce and industry, foreigners will refuse either to resume old enterprises or begin new ones. Under chapter one headed "Liquidation of the past" article one declares that the soviet government should accept the financial obligation of its predecessors, namely, the Imperial Russian government and the provisional government. This includes obligations to foreign powers and their nationals. Article two provides for recognition by the soviet of the financial engagements of all Russian authorities, provincial or local, and also all public utility enterprises contracted with other powers or their peoples. Article three declares that the soviet should assume responsibility for all material damage suffered by foreigners in consequence of the acts of negligence of the soviet or its predecessors. Article four says that the responsibilities mentioned in the preceding articles will be fixed by the commission on the Russian debt and by mixed arbitration tribunals to be created. Article five declares that all debts, responsibilities and obligations between foreign governments and the Russian government since Aug. 1, 1917, shall be considered as entirely settled by the payment of sums to be fixed in a future report. The report presents three annexes and explains that concerning guarantees on which Russia's debt will be treated two different solutions were brought forward by the powers represented at the London conference, and that no agreement was reached. These solutions are set forth in parallel columns when differences occur. Annex one explains the duties of the commission on the Russian debt. These include the fixing of a constitution and the procedure of the mixed tribunals, also the delivery of new Russian obligations or bonds, by virtue of the decisions of the mixed tribunals. The succeeding annexes establish a system for determining Russia's debt and the proper steps for preserving the rights of the holders of Russian bonds or other obligations legally entered into by Russia. Very large powers are accorded to the debt commission, which is composed of members to be named by the Russian government and others appointed by the other powers, with an independent president, who will be chosen from the powers or designated by the League of Nations. After elaborating the technical details relative to the future handling of the Russian debt, the report declares that the soviet government should promise various reforms in the administration of justice, including independence of the judiciary and free access to the courts by foreigners, who should be treated on a basis of equality. Further recommendations stipulate that the soviet permit foreigners to enter and leave Russia in conformity with international practice. Foreigners resident in Russia should be exempt from all obligatory military service, have liberty to communicate through the post, telegraph and wireless systems and to telegraph, cable and have easy facilities and the right to conduct commerce or professions without discrimination or restriction on account of their nationality. No discrimination should be shown in the case of workmen employed by foreigners regarding military service or colored labor. Additional rights of foreigners in Russia are suggested on the same basis as in other countries. The second part of the report is devoted to the restoration of Europe. Resolutions are proposed under the headings of finance, commerce and transport. The report declares that an essential condition of economic reconstruction is that each country shall stabilize the value of its money, declaring: "No country can be master of its own money so long as its budget shows an annual deficit which it tries to meet by the issue of paper currency or by opening bank credits. Each country must try by independent effort to remove the deficit." The report then proceeds to discuss measures for reform on the subjects of exchange, credits, tariff restrictions, and prohibitions respecting importations and exportations. A special section is devoted to the subject of transportation; it declares that the administration of international transports, must not be determined by political considerations, but by commercial and technical reasons, as emphasized by the convention of Barcelona, 1921, dealing with the liberty of transit. "It is desirable," says the report, "that representatives of the railroads of the different countries should hold a conference to determine what measures are necessary for the restoration of international traffic conditions, which should be equally efficient as during the pre-war period." This clearly implies that the restoration of the trans-Siberian railway is desirable; this railway has been closed to world communication since the Russian revolution. Referring to the reconstruction of Russia, the report especially emphasizes that effective collaboration of Russia and other nations will be difficult unless Russia while heartily labors to restore her economic life, the basis of which is agriculture. Security regarding property rights is a necessary condition for the birth of Russia, the report continues, and when this comes foreign assistance will be available immediately. In her industrial life Russia cannot expect foreign help unless foreigners are able to count upon the good will and collaboration of the Russian government.

The HUMPHREY Radiantfire

Get Rid of That Furnace Fire

Everyone knows that a furnace fire these Spring days makes the house too warm. There are times when no heat is needed. There are other times, especially in rainy weather, when it becomes necessary to dispel the dampness. This can be done most conveniently, economically, and satisfactorily through the use of a RADIANTFIRE.

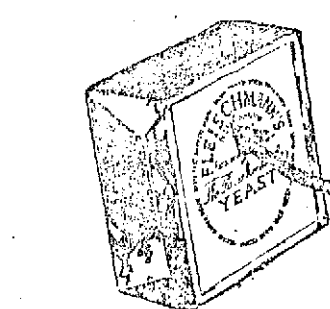

Cheer and comfort may be obtained in the home at very small cost—in fact, a Radiantfire can be burned from four to six hours for less than the cost of one shovelful of coal.

Fleischmann's fresh yeast helps digestion and cleans a coated tongue

THOUSANDS of men and women have found relief from various digestive disturbances by eating Fleischmann's Yeast. It is human nature to want to find out "why." So far as science can tell us this is the reason: Fleischmann's Yeast is a food abundant in certain elements which are necessary to health and life itself. It promotes the flow of bile and of pancreatic juice. It has a remarkably beneficial effect on the whole digestive system. It cleans a coated tongue. Try Fleischmann's fresh yeast in orange juice or, if you prefer, in milk. Men like it in milk shakes and malted milks. Women like it spread on bread or crackers. Keep your digestion in the pink of condition and your tongue clean and healthy by eating 2 or 3 cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast fresh every day before or between meals. Get Fleischmann's Yeast fresh daily from your grocer.

Radio Pierces Stone Walls

BY HARRY B. HUNT
WASHINGTON, April 11.—On a table 2x12 feet, in a room adjoining the office of Major General Squier, chief of the army signal corps, stand the most unique long-distance radio receiving sets in the country. Everything connected with the two sets is contained within the walls of the room. There are no outside antennae, with aerial towers and wires to catch the wireless waves from the open ether.

The windows may be shut, the key-holes plugged, every chink through which a fugitive wavelet might be expected to creep is tightly closed, and yet the instruments in this room will pick up the messages broadcasted from Bordeaux, France, Nauen, Germany, or Chatterton, Wales, as clearly and distinctly as will the Arlington station with its three massive towers and its network of high-strung antennae.

Penetrating through brick and plaster and glass, the radio waves are picked up by small coil or loop antennae, strung like yarn on a reel about three feet in diameter.

Each dot and dash, however, is clear and distinct and easily read by anyone familiar with Morse.

The development of the loop antennae, General Squier says, removes one of the serious problems following the rapid expansion of radio.

In cities, the entire sky threatened to become overhung with a network of radio wires. This unsightly and complicated web of wires may now be altogether dispensed with and each receiving set so built that no part of it need extend outside the four walls of the room where the set is located.

STRIKE OF MINERS ENDS

WOONSOCKET, R. I., April 12.—The strike of weavers at the Manchester mills here ended temporarily today, when the operatives agreed to return tomorrow morning and complete present contracts which will take until May 1. They still refuse to accept a 10 per cent cut and 54 hour week which the company proposes to put into effect May 1. About 100 workers are involved.

There are 20 separate islands in the Hawaiian Islands.

Merrimack River Rising

40,000 cubic feet per second flows over the dam, but the river is high enough to cause the local sewer department to abandon work on an extension job at the foot of Fulton street, off Lakeview avenue, as the water has backed up there to fill a manhole to a depth of three feet.

Since Monday, when the river was running 17,500 feet per second, a gradual rise has been recorded and an increase of more than 8000 cubic feet per second has occurred. The dam at Lawrence street falls practically has disappeared and very little fall is apparent except at the Varnum avenue. In the middle river and near the gate house, the water is sweeping over into the rapids below with hardly a noticeable break to mark its passage over the dam.

The Concord has not shown a tendency to step along with its larger sister and today is not running as high as it did on several occasions in March. Water was sweeping over the Whipple dam in Lawrence street this noon at the rate of 1140 cubic feet per second and stood slightly better than a foot over the crest of the dam. At one mouth of Beaver brook and the water at the dam reached 1900 cubic feet per second.

Real flood conditions are not apparent at any point along the Merrimack as it passes through Lowell, although the water has stretched over a considerable amount of land near the mouth of Beaver brook and the water has reached up several feet on large tree trunks there.

The canals reflect the high water of the Merrimack and are running full. No little amount of small sized drift wood is being swept along with the current.

Farther up the river on the Pawtucket boulevard side the water has reached pretty well up the bank and today is lapping very close to the doors of the municipal bath house. The beach there has entirely disappeared. On the other side, low land near the old Yepper boat house is receiving its usual spring baptism.

Almanacs were first used in England and Denmark.

Motor buses are now used by 12 railroads in the United States.

—Mayor to Cut Police and Fire Forces to 25 Men Each

YOUNGSTOWN, O., April 12.—With the approval of the chamber of commerce, Mayor George L. Oles announced today that he would reduce the police and fire departments to 25 men each. There are 135 police and about 80 firemen at present.

Those who want additional fire and police protection must band together and hire it, the mayor said. The city has no money to pay salaries and the banks have refused to lend any.

To Propose "Army Holiday"

naval holiday arranged at the Washington conference.

Disarmament continued to be the most discussed question among the delegates here, although barred from formal consideration.

Louis Barthou, head of the French delegation, asked if France would be disposed to discuss disarmament at some later conference, replied:

"If I wanted to say the easy, pleasant thing, my answer would be yes, and yet the real answer of France is we don't know."

"Don't forget that we have before us a great army in Russia, and while Germany certainly is not a menace at present, we have a menace in the potentially great German army of the future."

The report on financial questions prepared by the Germans and presented by Dr. Rathenau to Premier Poincaré as chairman of the conference, was transmitted today to Sir Robert Horne, chancellor of the British exchequer, and will be discussed at the afternoon meeting of the financial commission.

The report deals especially with a plan for the stabilization of exchange through an international loan and also outlines a proposal for universal monetary reform. The German plan considers the reconstruction of Russia indispensable for the successful issue of any such reform.

HOW TO MAKE A REGENERATIVE SET

BY R. L. DUNCAN,

Director, Radio Institute of America. For selectiveness in tuning and all-around efficiency, the regenerative set is the best. Practically all its parts, with the exception of the vacuum tube, can be made by the amateur.

The diagram shows the hook-up of the most efficient regenerative receiving set.

No. 1 is the variometer. No. 2, A variable condenser. Although this is not absolutely necessary, this condenser adds selectiveness in tuning.

No. 3, A variometer in the grid circuit.

No. 4, The grid leak and grid condenser.

No. 5, The plate variometer or tickler.

No. 6, A 22-volt dry battery which may be purchased in any electrical store for about $1.25.

No. 7, The headphones, which should have between 2000 and 3000 ohms resistance.

No. 8, A 5-volt, 60 to 120-ampere-hour battery for the filament of the tube.

A is the filament, B is the grid, C is the plate.

In wiring the set use No. 16 or 18 copper wire and use "spaghetti" insulation. Try not have any of the connecting wires running parallel.

All of these parts can be made. Tomorrow I will show you how to do it.

Makes "Old Masters" Overnight

BY ROY GIBBONS
CHICAGO, April 10.—Climb four rickety flights of stairs to a garret studio perched at the top of one of the most ramshackle buildings of Chicago's Latin quarter and you'll find—
An artist—
A parrot—
And a $1,000,000 secret!
The artist is Theodore Van Cline—and he's a chemist as well.
The parrot is Balboa, his chum.
And the secret?
That's a progress of making overnight duplicates of old masters, so perfect that the most discerning expert cannot see a flaw.
Van Cline is the only living person who knows the secret, he says.

Refuses Million
And he has just turned down a $1,000,000 offer from the representative of a European art gallery. He'll carry the secret with him to the grave, if he dies in poverty, he declares.
"Because," says Van Cline, "I am not a trickster. To commercialize old masters would be like rising up and striking my own mother. I shall not become a plagiarist."
At noon today, Van Cline could paint a reproduction of a Raphael, Van Dyke or Rembrandt. Before tomorrow morning, by a chemical process, he could have the picture 500 years! His duplicate would be so accurate that even the cracks in the paint would show.

Stumbled on Secret

his secret while studying art at The Hague, 30 years ago.
A Dutch noble took Van Cline under his tutelage and, brought him several original old masters which he asked Van Cline to copy minutely.
"I did this," says Van Cline, "until I learned that my patron had been borrowing these masterpieces from his friends and returning my copies to them while keeping the originals for himself.
"When I threatened exposure, my patron committed suicide."
Van Cline has done decorative work for the queen-mother of Holland. He occasionally uses his secret to copy old masters for his friends or himself.

PINAFORE CASTE CAREFULLY PICKED

Although the sale of tickets on last Saturday was large, there are now many good seats on sale at the Opera House for both performances of Pinafore on Monday, April 17th.
The rehearsals are showing that this year's work will be up to the high standard set in the performance of "Mikado" last year under Mr. Runt's direction for the Teachers' organization.
Edward J. Slattery, Jr., as "Koko" and Miss Charlotte Walsh as "Naiasha" will be equally fine this year as Sir Joseph and Little Buttercup. James A. MacDonald also of last year's cast will be seen as the Constable. John B. Doyle will play the difficult role of Ralph Rakstraw. Raymond Slater as the gallant captain and his daughter, Josephine, played by Miss Marion Lane, will be as fine an interpretation as ever seen on a local stage.

SUSCEPTIBLE TO DIPHTHERIA GERMS

Sixty per cent of the 36 children of the Wood Street primary school who were sick last week by Dr. Francis A. Finnehan, director of school hygiene, to determine immunity from diphtheria germs, were found to be susceptible.
Readings to ascertain the results of the tests were made yesterday and Dr. Finnehan said later that the percentage of susceptibles is about the average in a group of children of the usual primary school age.
Children whose readings were positive will be given immunity if the parents so desire and in all cases parents will be notified of the result of the test. In no instance was there any sign of discomfort on the part of a child who was tested and no ill effects were apparent.

GRANT LODGING HOUSE LICENSES

Three lodging-house licenses which have been before the license commission on several occasions, and which the police reported as houses of doubtful reputation, were granted for the probationary period of two weeks at a meeting of the committee last night.
A hearing in the case of a coffee house proprietor in Dunbar street, for having a gaming machine in his possession, was continued until next Tuesday evening.

STORM CENTER
Elmer Doyen, assistant secretary of the treasury, is a center of a political storm that may result in the resignation of high government officials. Political as President Harding supports him in opposition to Secretary Mellon and Internal Revenue Collector Blair.

A hibernating bear in winter breathes four times a minute, or one-tenth as often as he breathes when awake.

Back Weak and Lame for Years

St. Jacobs Oil stops any pain, so when your back is sore and lame, or lumbago, sciatica or rheumatism have you suffered up, don't suffer! Get a small trial bottle of old, honest St. Jacobs Oil at any drug store, pour a little in your hand, and rub it right on your aching back and by the time you count fifty the soreness and lameness are gone.
Don't stay crippled. This soothing, penetrating oil needs to be used only once. It takes the pain right out and ends the misery. It is medicinal, yet absolutely harmless, and doesn't burn the skin.
Nothing else stops lumbago, sciatica, backache or rheumatism so promptly. It never disappoints.—Adv.

JEWISH PEOPLE WILL OBSERVE FEAST

Today marks the opening of the feast of Unleavened Bread or Passover, which will be observed by all Jewish people for a period of seven or eight days, according to their interpretation of the biblical injunction in Exodus 23:14, and in observance of the feast special services were held in all the local Jewish synagogues today.

During the Passover week all Jewish families abstain from eating leaven in any form and in its stead use the Matzo, concluding the festival on April 19th.

The first and last days are days of holy convocation. That is, services are held on these days in the synagogues. The evening of the first day of Passover is particularly important.

This evening is known in Jewish circles as "Seder Night." Its intent is to unite members of a household about the festive board and there read together the ritual compiled for the occasion and known as the "Haggadah." This liturgical composition recites the chief events of the Exodus of the Children of Israel from Egypt and with many a quaint song and story revives memories of hardship in ancient days from which the people of Israel were delivered by a strong hand and an outstretched arm.

Passover, it will readily be seen, reaches back to remote antiquity when it was observed by the Hebrew tribes in the dawn of history as an agri-

FOOD SHOW TO OPEN HERE MONDAY

Preparations are under way for opening the big state food exposition, Monday night in the Casino, to run throughout the week, afternoons and evenings. Women will have an opportunity to see the very best in the line of prepared foods, as well as food being cooked. Many of the dainty dishes will be served in the hall.

Standard articles put out by the best provision firms of the east will be demonstrated in booths. The exposition already has been given for one week in Boston and proved a great success. From here it will go to Springfield, Haverhill and Fall River. The Lowell Retail Grocers' and Provision Dealers' association has provided the fair.

There will be music afternoons and evenings, and a number of attractions for the exposition visitors in addition to the food displays. Nothing but standard goods of known worth will be demonstrated, for nothing but the best is the motto of the exhibitors.

JEWISH RELIEF FUND REMAINS BELOW MARK

Although the Jewish Relief Fund campaign in Lowell officially is ended, yet a few contributions continue to come to the committee. Less than $18,000 of the $25,000 quota assigned was raised here.

The quota for the entire country was $14,000,000, and has been more than realized. And Boston yet is to be heard from. The quota assigned to The Hub is $400,000. That city is the last of the larger places to grant the drive. Three $25 donations and three others of $10 each were received by the Lowell committee since the campaign closed. Any further contributions will be welcome, the committee announces.

RESEARCH CLUB ENTERTAINS

The Women's Research club entertained the Sam Walter Foss club, with a musical program and farce presented in the parish house of Grace Universalist church, yesterday afternoon. The Beacon Hill trio provided the music, and members of the Research club enacted the farce. Refreshments followed the entertainment program.

Silk stockings last longer washed this way, say makers of "Onyx" hosiery

Emery & Beers Company, Inc.
BROADWAY AT 24TH STREET

Lever Bros. Co.,
Cambridge, Mass.

Gentlemen:
No silk stocking can be expected to wear well if it is allowed to remain unwashed for days. Perspiration acids, dust and leather stains will rot the delicate silk threads.

Silk stockings should be washed after every wearing and washed as gently as every other fine fabric.

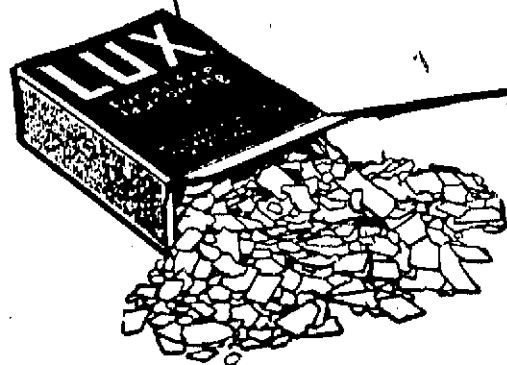

Lux, with its generous suds is ideal for the quick, thorough washing silk stockings require. The rich suds are squeezed through the sheer fabric and totally do away with rubbing, which is too harsh for fine silk.

We advise every woman who buys our silk stockings to launder them with Lux.

Very truly yours,

Mountains Are "Melted" To Produce Oil

NEW DEVICE TRANSFORMING A COLORADO MOUNTAIN INTO OIL AND OTHER COMMERCIAL PRODUCTS. INSETS (LEFT), HARRY M. BROWN, ITS INVENTOR, AND (RIGHT), THOMAS DWYER, CHEMIST, WHO AIDED HIM

DENVER, April 10.—A marvelous new machine that scientists say will rival the steam engine, the telephone, the airplane and the wireless, is at work near here.

It exists mountains! And transforms them into oil, paraffin, asphalt, perfume, dyes and synthetic rubber! It is taking the gambling element out of the oil industry. It will no longer be necessary to sink wells to get oil.

With this new machine oil men can measure up an oil shale cliff, figure out how much oil it will produce, turn a crank and put the machine to work. This machine is the invention of Harry L. Brown, New York. He got the idea when ranchers told him of rocks that caught fire. He knew these were shale oil rocks.

He secured the aid of Thomas Dwyer, Philadelphia chemist, and perfected the machine.

Of course the machine will not transform all mountains into commercial products—it works only with shale rocks.

The machine is a series of revolving rollers, heated by oil burners. Its giant maw crushes down the crude shale rock. A big fan propels the rock through the rollers.

The heat volatilizes the oil in the rock and it is sucked out through pipes and carried to tanks. Both lubricating oils and gasoline are produced.

After the oil has been extracted the rest of the rock goes on through other rollers where other products—165 in all—are taken from it.

Finally the rock is dumped out at the rear of the machine as black dust. This dust is made up on hydrocarbons of high commercial value.

"This invention will revolutionize the oil industry," says Dr. Victor Alderson, president of the Colorado School of Mines, America's foremost authority on oil shale.

(By Theatrical Own Press Agents)

R. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Barry in "The Rube" which is featured at the R. F. Keith theatre, this week, are among the very best of performers in vaudeville. Always sure of a very warm welcome, and nowhere more than at the R. F. Keith, they have one of the few perfect vehicles on the stage today. Josie Rooney, who is associated with Bobby Nelson and Rube Beckwith in a dancing act, is a pretty, nifty, snappy dancer, and the Hegedus Sisters, violinists, are quite the best exponents in their line we have known during the entire season. Their program is of the top-class kind throughout. Other acts of the week are: Sharkey, Roth & Wilt, singers; Morrell & Harris, in a skit; Countess Verona, comedienne; and Montambo & Nap, silent funsters.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Final performances will be given this evening at the Merrimack Square theatre of "The Cradle," starring Ethel Clayton. Tomorrow there will be the usual mid-week change of program.

Manager Nelson has selected a program of exceptional merit for Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The leading feature will be "Shame," a striking dramatic creation with John Gilbert and an all-star cast, and "Hush Money" starring the one and only Alice Brady. The third big feature will be a Clyde Cook comedy, "The Chauffeur."

"Shame" is a story of striking power and wonderful appeal. One can't do it justice in cold print. The spectator is shown the seductive life of the orient, the interior of the palace of an oriental potentate, a life battle with wolves in the Arctic and various other scenes of equal dramatic power. The star, John Gilbert, is a talented, able actor, who is fast making his way into the forefront of dramatic screen luminaries. Don't overlook this big photoplay. It's one of the treats of the season.

"Hush Money," the other big feature for the week-end, deals with the spoiled daughter of a big Wall Street operator, who has been reared to believe that money can buy and do anything. Thus, inadvertently the girl finds herself involved in an affair that would make splendid front page reading. Her father and her fiance both wish to hush the matter up by paying a generous sum, but the girl finds courage to face her responsibilities.

Not only does this situation offer Miss Brady a strong dramatic role, but also, as the daughter of a New York millionaire, opportunity for a very smart wardrobe. Probably there is no actress who wears more expensive clothes with more chic and distinction than Alice Brady, and her gowns and wraps in this production are said to be unusually sumptuous.

In "The Chauffeur" Clyde Cook has one of the funniest comedies of his laugh-provoking career. It will cause every blue within hailing distance. Features for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week will include Gloria Swanson in "Her Husband's Trade Mark," and Marion Davies in "Beauty's Worth."

THE STRAND

Tom Moore, assisted by Helene Chadwick in "From the Ground Up," a delightful comedy drama, will be shown for the last time today at the Strand. The second feature of merit is Little Pickford, a sister of Mary Pickford, in "That Girl Montana," a gripping dramatic screen effort of rare excellence.

For the week-end, starting with matinee on Thursday, Blanche Sweet in "That Girl Montana" and Miss du Pont, one of the stars of "Foolish Wives," in her newest screen success, "The Golden Galleons." Both are strong film offerings. Miss Sweet plays the part of a vigorous, daring, self-reliant out-door girl in "That Girl Montana," which is an adaptation of Marah Ellis Ryan's popular novel. It tells the adventure and romance in the life of Montana Rivers, who fought to live down a past she was not responsible for.

Miss du Pont, who was seen to particular advantage in "Foolish Wives," will have an entirely new role in "The Golden Galleons." It's a story of a show girl who handled some ancient temptations in her own way and won. Don't fail to see and enjoy Miss du Pont's talent and beauty.

RIALTO THEATRE

Today is the last showing of the sterling production, "The Rosary," which has drawn heavily to the Rialto theatre for the past two days. On the same program is a story of the Canadian northwest, mounted, polished and the Kingdome.

Beginning tomorrow and continuing for the remainder of the week the Rialto will have two extra good attractions entitled "Should a Wife Work?" and "Out of the Dust." Both are classed among the best pictures of the year. "Out of the Dust" is a picture of the type of melodrama. It is a big clean, thrilling picture of outdoor prairie life inspired, we are told, by the great Remington paintings. The picture is exceedingly well presented, with careful costuming of the period and a faithful attention to detail. The early scenes of life at Fort Sheridan, when the army post was a mere backside and the Indians roamed the plains, are unusually interesting. The story vibrates with a human appeal and it is all convincing and real. It contains many of those moments which make the eyes suspiciously moist, while now then, a bit of good humor creeps in to even the score. Don't forget to go and see this picture. You won't be sorry.

Everybody is eligible. Men, women, boys, girls—all are urged to name a title for this picture. Nothing could be easier. Do it now, while you think of it. It will be real fun—and you have a real chance to win First Prize, or at least one of the other valuable prizes.

Why this contest?

This is the first gun in the 1922 Orange-Crush campaign. This year you will hear lots about this drink, and about the companion drinks, Lemon-Crush and Lime-Crush. This contest is to get everybody thinking about the "Crushes" at the very start of Spring.

The picture here shown is by Norman Rockwell, the famous artist. It was painted especially for Orange-Crush Company. Soon you will see it in beautiful colors, displayed wherever Orange-Crush is sold. Now we want a title for the picture.

At the close of the contest a committee of judges will decide which are the best titles submitted. The prizes are listed elsewhere in this advertisement.

Read these facts about Orange-Crush—they will help you think of a title: This is the seventh year of this famous drink. It is the largest selling fruit-flavored beverage in the world, due to its purity, quality and deliciousness. Many imitations have arisen, but none has ever approached the original Ward's Orange-Crush. The flavors in Orange-Crush, Lemon-Crush and Lime-Crush are genuine, obtained entirely from citrus fruits. Each delicious finished drink is a compound of fruit oils and fruit juices obtained from oranges, lemons or limes, finest cane sugar, U.S. certified food color, carbonated water and citric acid (natural acid of citrus fruits).

Get busy now. Put on your thinking cap and think of a title for the picture. See the list of prizes. Read the simple rules. Send or bring your title without delay. You may win First Prize.

Rules of Contest

The contest is now open. It will close Saturday, May 6, 1922, at noon. Everybody can join, except our employees.

All you need to do is to write your title on a sheet of paper, sign your name and address beneath, and leave it with any drink dealer, or mail or bring it to the bottling company's address given below. Write plainly. Use one side of paper only. You can suggest more than one title—as many as you wish. Titles may be original or may be a quotation.

Titles will be judged by three judges selected from well known citizens of this community. Decisions will be final. By "best" is understood that title which most cleverly describes the situation shown in the picture.

In case of ties the full amount of the prize will be given to each tying contestant. Awards will be published in this paper as soon as possible after close of the contest. Checks will be sent to winners immediately afterwards.

The "crinkly" bottle is used for all three "Crushes." It is your guide to the genuine. Look for it when you buy.

The "Crushes" are prepared by Orange-Crush Co., Plant and Laboratories, Chicago. In Canada: Orange-Crush Co., Ltd., Winnipeg. English Address: 47 Gt. Tower St., London, E.C. 3.

Leave your titles with any soft drink dealer, or bring or mail them to

OPTIMISM SAVES LIVES

When a man reaches a point at which he thinks his life is worthless, he is assuredly in a hapless plight; but let it be understood that no normal life is worthless and none can be worthless unless made so by misuse or misdirection. This is a case in which optimism combined with courage will banish that mental gloom that leads many to self-destruction.

Nothing is more strange than the lightness with which some men regard their own lives and their destiny. Very few realize what a mysterious world we live in and what an insignificant circumstance may change the whole tenor of a life time. This is especially true of a young person, a boy or girl unable to see the far-reaching effect of any particular course.

As the slightest vibration sends out ether waves to a vast distance, so a single word or act, however trifling, may have an important effect for good or ill on the heart or mind of a susceptible person. Thus it is apparent that when untoward events happen in the lives of individuals, there is no telling to what circumstance it may all be attributed. It may be a casual remark heard in conversation, a passage read from a book or even an editorial from a newspaper.

We were impressed with the sad case of a young man about a week ago—and yet old enough to have better sense—who committed suicide by inhaling gas while listening to a radio concert and at the same time writing an account of his feelings as the gas entered his system and gradually ended his life.

He had served overseas, fought in the battle of the Argonne, and now, after having braved those perils and survived, he died by his own hand because he took a pessimistic view of life and because he obviously had no sense of moral responsibility for his own acts, even in such a vital step.

He left a note reading, "I am the result of thirty-eight years of failure." What a sad verdict to be passed upon himself by a young man while thus acting as his own executioner!

Had he mustered one-thousandth part of the courage which he had shown on the battlefield, he could have overcome the wave of adversity in which he had found himself. Had he told some friends of his plight, he would assuredly have been saved; but he made up his mind that he was a failure, an incubation to himself and others and on this false assumption, he ended his life.

The verdict of the public will be that while he was to be pitied, he lacked two qualities very essential to every man who has to meet the struggles of life. These are VISION to see conditions and COURAGE to do what seems best calculated to meet those conditions and win success in spite of all obstacles.

In this connection, we cannot recall anything better calculated to overcome pessimism and to inspire hope and courage in the face of adversity than the following stanzas on "Opportunity Lost," by Malone. They offset the idea contained in the "Opportunity" poems by Ingalls and others, the effect of which is to cause regret or despondency on account of losing an opportunity, just as if that were the one and only chance of a lifetime, whereas others just as good may be available if we only go out and find them. The poem:

OPPORTUNITY LOST

They do me wrong who say I come no more,
When once I knock and fail to find you in;
For every day I stand outside your door,
And bid you wake and rise to fight and win.

Will not the precious chances passed away,
Weep not for golden ages on the wane;
Each night I burn the records of the day,
At sunrise every soul is born again.

Laugh like a boy at splendors that have sped,
To vanished joys be blind and deaf and dumb;
My judgment seals the dead past with its dead,
It never binds a moment yet to come.

Though deep in mire, wring not thy hands and weep
I lend my arm to all who say "I can."
No shamefaced outcast ever sank so deep
But yet might rise and be again a man.

Do not behold thy lost youth all achear,
Lost feet from righteous retribution's blow;
Then turn from blotted archives of the past
To find thy future pages white as snow.

Art thou a mourner? rouse thee from thy spell,
Art thou a winner? else may be forgiven.
Each morning gives thee wings to flee from hell,
Each night a star to guide thy feet to Heaven.

That is a poem that every young man should commit to memory on account of its optimistic spirit. It is just such an inspiration that is needed to enable us to view things in a rational way, to look upon the bright side, as it were, and to see through the lowering clouds of adversity or affliction the sun of prosperity and hope rather than assume that a fatal pall settles upon the earth and that the only refuge is despondency or death.

A SPOILS RAID

The action of President Harding in removing 29 executives of the bureau of engraving and printing at Washington has caused quite a stir in political circles and has brought a vigorous protest from the National Civil Service Reform League of which Secretary Hughes is vice president.

This action is but one of the steps toward making places for hungry republican office seekers. It is understood that the pressure upon the president has been so great that he was obliged to yield. It is also understood that a general sweep will be made in the postoffice department, overturning the civil service rules and abolishing the standing of a great many officials who have considered themselves secure in their positions.

The law is quoted against such action but apparently the republican leaders care nothing for such considerations. The protest of the 29 executives will avail nothing, and the political axe is to be used still further. The other victims will protest in the same way, but the work of clearing out democratic officials and making way for republican office seekers will continue. Inasmuch as the party leaders find the ground slipping from under their feet, they hope to hold their supporters by distributing the spoils of office as directed by the party bosses.

President Harding has given no reason for his action as required by law and it is generally believed that there is no reason except politics. It was a spoils raid as will soon appear when the places will be gradually filled.

HALF OF ONE PER CENT

Twenty years ago the commission of internal revenue consulted a committee of beer specialists, headed by Dr. Max Henius. They advised him that a beverage containing more than half of 1 per cent alcohol should be classed as "fermented."

This was the basis of the Volstead act on alcoholic content. A picture of Max should be in the home of every wet.

Now Max suggests that what is fermented is not necessarily intoxicating. He recommends a decision by a committee of 19, to be appointed by the American Medical Association and the American Chemical Society.

Henius thinks the committee would vote "27.5" beer non-intoxicating. Incidentally, he is convinced that prohibition is here to stay.

Some think it a very Henius thing to allow Max to decide the alcoholic content of our non-intoxicating beverages.

Still Professor John J. Mahoney keeps climbing up the educational ladder. Now he is head of the education department of Boston university as well as director of the extension work to be conducted jointly by Harvard and the U. S. Prof. Mahoney has made a national reputation in Americanization work in which he is recognized as a leading authority.

Now it is in order for pedestrians to observe the white crossing and auto-lets the safety zone lines marking the space allowed for passengers getting on and off cars. Strict observance of these crossing and safety lines should reduce the number of accidents.

Now is the time to get to work on the home gardens. There should be a return to the war garden system. It would help to reduce the cost of living.

That is a hopeful move started by Mayor O'Neill of Dublin to bring all the contending elements together to settle upon a policy in which they can all agree.

If the fuel administrator has anything to do, John A. O'Donoghue will discharge the duties quite satisfactorily.

Doubtless the police would like now summer uniforms, but not all of them may feel inclined to pay the price.

SEEN AND HEARD

Somebody has said that a bootlegger is "the bar that walks like a man."

It's easy to tell when summer comes. Look at the funny names of the new soft drinks.

A new political party in without a name; but the others will soon begin calling it some.

Thought for Today

The heart sometimes grows jealous of itself, and is fearful of being glad. We check the signs of returning joyfulness; we keep about us the signs of woe. This must not be. Every impulse toward returning happiness is of God.—George Dawson.

A Word a Day

Today's word is Inevitable. It's pronounced in-vek-tiv, with accent on the second syllable. It means—a denunciation, an accusation, opprobrium, censure, rebuke, harsh words. It comes from Latin "inevitare," to carry or bring against. It's used like this: "Much inevitable is exchanged in senatorial debates."

Can't Put It in 10 Words

A telegraph company has a book of sample messages appropriate for any occasion. They range all the way from "Merry Christmas" to "As the warm sunshine of spring has newly decked the earth with flowers, with tender buds and fresh young green, so may your heart be filled with sunshine, bringing forth blossoms of happiness and contentment."—New York Evening Post.

Saved by Accident

"Why have I never married?" the old bachelor said in reply to a leading question. "Well, once upon a time, in a crowd, I trod on a lady's gown. She shrieked furiously, beginning, 'You clumsy brute!' Then she smiled sweetly, and said, 'O, I beg your pardon! I thought you were my husband! No, it really doesn't matter in the least.' And when I came to think it over, I decided that maybe I'd just as well let marriage alone."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Smart Little Daughter

Little daughter was sitting one evening on her father's knee. She had a new little brother, whom she regarded with wonder, as children do regard the latest usurper before they have learned to love him. "Today," said her father, "a man offered to give me a whole roomful of gold for little brother. Shall I sell him?" The child shook her head. "But," said the father, "think what nice things a roomful of gold would buy! Don't you think I'd better let the man have him?" "No," answered the little girl thoughtfully; "let's keep him till he's older; he'll be worth more then."

A Sleep Fender

They were discussing that ever recurring question—the question of getting up in the morning. "I don't think," said Frederick, "that an alarm clock is any good at all. I hear the bell of my alarm clock so every morning. I simply lay my hand on the nearest thing I can pick up and hurl something or other at the clock. I am constantly paying for new alarm clocks, but they only rouse me for a minute, and I go to sleep again." "I've got a new kind of alarm clock," reported Charlie. "I don't know how long it will last, but it is simply doing fine work at present." "How does it differ from others?" "It toots just like a motor horn. As soon as I hear it I jump out of bed to avoid being run over by a three-ton truck."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

The Mountain Girl

Life ripens swiftly in these lonely hills. Ripens, then, hangs long-withered on the heights. Out of their sullen haunts, relentless wills. And unsold loves, don't you burgeons force and strain. Ready for life when life has scarce begun. Eager to spend its all and then be done.

So, as I gaze at Dorothea now, Windblown against the cabin's weathered side; Defiant, dashed, with bodies blowing white. And rain-soaked homespun skirt that I cannot hide. My bold, strong, ardent curves of womanhood; The exultation wins to pain.

Youth, splendid, careless racing with the wind. Laughing against the storm as it roars by. And yet, perhaps when I pass by again, I'll find from the heat of weather she will be One of the sunken, burned-out lives Here where the mountains shoulder to the sky.

So, as the storm goes smashing down the ridge, Striding white fire from the smitten hills. Swelling the falls and streams until it fills. The earth with giant's music, wild and strange.

The high sea sends across the shaken Brines—golden tears; its very triumph rings.

Of beauty so intense it cannot last Beyond a transient day of fragile things.

That break us like a wind from uncool wings. And then are whirled up into the air—DOVE HENWARD, in "Contemporary Verse" for April.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

With the marking off of Merrimack Square with white lines for the betterment of traffic conditions comes a good story from Merrimack. According to Mike, he was standing at his post shortly after 7 o'clock yesterday morning when he noticed a man start to walk across the street from Green's corner to The Sun building. Mike noticed that the man made several starts across, using the white line to walk on, but that he stopped and backed to the curb several times. Finally the man got past Mike.

Mike took another stroll and saw a "Well, you don't have to walk on the white line; all you are supposed to do is keep between them."

"Zat so?" the man replied, "That's a cinch; anyone can keep between 'em." Whereupon Mike, almost under the influence of the stranger's breath, turned to throw another switch, blow his whistle and allow his thoughts to dwell on Tewksbury for a minute.

Mr. William L. Gookin is receiving many compliments for the wonderful success of the musical program carried out at the Immaculate Conception church on Sunday evening in connection with the beautiful and impressive service entitled "The Seven Last Words of Christ," the composition of Dubois, although very difficult, was rendered with splendid success, the entire program as printed in Saturday's Sun having been rendered with great devotion and effect by the augmented choir, ably assisted by the organ accompaniments, played by Mrs. Hugh Walker. The soloists appeared to excel their former efforts. Mr. Gookin's solo in the Fourth Word—"My God, My God, Why Has Thou Forsaken Me?" seemed to touch the oil-marks of the service and also the highest point of excellence in the musical rendition. The other soloists, without exception, rendered their parts with splendid effect and the overpowering swell of the chorus and organ resounded through the Gothic arches of the statue office and seemed to lift the vast congregation heavenward on wings of ecstatic melody and praise.

Some young ladies of my acquaintance about town strenuously object to being referred to as "flappers." The term "flapper" is supposed to apply to young ladies who carry styles to the extremes. Rakish headpieces, rolled stockings, short skirts and powder and paint are some of the characteristic marks of the original "flapper." These young ladies claim they have a perfect right to wear the latest style clothes. They rebel at that to do otherwise classes them as being behind the times. It would appear that these objectors are correct in certain respects. They need have no fear of being termed "flappers" as long as their clothes conform to the accepted rules of modesty. Clothes can be worn modestly and still be considered stylish and ladies who follow the rules need have no fear of being called "flappers."

Baseball is coming along fast and within a week will be in full swing. The major leagues open today and they all have made plans for long schedules. I notice that the youngsters of the city are taking advantage of every available space to stage baseball games. One place they should keep out of and that is the public highway. There is too much danger for them to be playing where vehicles are going by and where the traffic is fairly heavy. Yesterday I noticed youngsters playing in the roadway of Courtville, right in sections where the traffic is unusually heavy. A few accidents resulting from ball playing will probably curb this, but it would seem to me the old adage of "a stitch in time saves nine" should be observed and serve as a safety first precaution. There are plenty of large fields and open spaces for the boys.

It will be well if a great number of auto drivers heed the warning issued in district court recently by Justice Thomas J. Burleigh relative to reckless driving. With the coming of warm weather the autos are becoming thicker and thicker than the proverbial hens. And these would-be Barney Oldfields seem to be taking more chances than they ever did. It has got so now that it is almost impossible to get across the streets of the city without taking a chance of being run down by some reckless auto driver. A great many drivers seem to know little more about operating their machines than the fact that one lever means go and another means stop. Not only for the safety of others but for the safety of themselves, auto drivers better be careful. Judge Burleigh intimated that reckless drivers would be given the highest penalty the law allows. Registrar of Motor Vehicles Goodwin promises to do the rest.

Spring is surely here. Yesterday the clouds were such as to make its initial appearance on the main streets. Packed out in a coat of fresh paint and with plenty of fresh water aboard this layer-of-dust cart started out early and worked late. Its appearance on the streets was a sign for the passers-by to give it a wide berth as from the nozzles plenty of "wet" water belched forth in a strong stream. I noticed that one woman, wearing a white skirt, stood too near the curb as the car went by. Now someone's going to have an extra bit of washing to do.

The Marguerite Fields company players made many friends during their stay at the Opera House this winter. The management of the theatre and Miss Fields left no stone unturned to produce the very best plays possible. That Lowell theatre-going folk appreciated their combined efforts is attested by the manner in which the productions were patronized. Looking back over the time from Christmas, when the company opened, to its closing performance last Saturday night, not a poor show was produced. Naturally there were some offerings which made bigger hits than others; this is always the case. But as a general rule the reports on all the shows came out as "very good." It is hoped that this company will return here next fall, for if it does the public may rest assured that it would have the opportunity of seeing some fine plays well played.

HEIGHTS

BERTON BRALEY'S DAILY POEM

They're wearing 'em short in Manhattan. In spite of Parisian decrees. They're wearing 'em brief in Chicago. Just barely concealing the knees; They're notably short in Havana. Or 'that's what I seem to recall. But they're wearing 'em shorter in Texas. Than anywhere else at all!

Boast not of the flappers of Gotham. Or those of the Florida coast. For down in the land of the long-horns They'll laugh at your mightiest. The girls roll a mean slither stocking. A fact which is mentioned to show They've flapper flappers in Texas. Than any place else I know.

Of bob-haired and up-to-date maidens. This state has a plentiful stock. But—nobody worries about 'em. And nobody suffers from shock. Short skirts remain wholly in fashion. Through spring, summer, winter and fall. For—they're wearing 'em shorter in Texas. Than any place else at all. (Copyright, 1922, The Lowell Sun.)

GOV. COX SAYS CRIME MUST BE STOPPED

BOSTON, April 12.—Governor Cox issued a statement yesterday afternoon declaring that there is "too much crime and violence in Massachusetts" and asserting that "it must be stopped." He deplores the number of shooting affrays, urges full enforcement of prohibition laws and points out to the courts "the necessity of firmer treatment of criminals."

The governor asks, "Is it too much to expect that small doses of jail or prison may not be made an effective substitute for the system of fines and slings now in force?"

The governor told the state house newspapermen he had issued the statement in view of the many shootings and carrying payrolls or guarding money have been robbed and policemen shot down in the performance of their duty.

Barn Whisked Away From Cow

WOOSTER, Ohio, April 12.—A cow, contentedly chewing a cud, tethered to a manger, which apparently was built in the middle of a field, was a sight at Georgetown, east of here, after a violent windstorm had swept by today. The barn was whisked away from the cow. Manger and cow were unharmed. Two other barns were torn from their foundations and wrecked by the storm.

Amateur Ball

We received the following letter for this column which is printed just as it came in. I would like to make an appeal to the boys who have teams and who play through the challenges in this paper. At the first of the season we wrote to this column and advised that we would be called in the Little League. Under this name we filed our schedule. Then came along another team and played and gave challenges under this name. Is that fair? Now everything is in a state of confusion. We don't know who we are to play because they are playing the fake team. Here are some of the fake team's lineup: M. Ferran, Chaplain, C. Lier, Leo Lier, Rogers, and Ryan. Our team is as follows: Cox, Murphy, McCarthy, Denigan, Doyle, Poemo, Pellotier, O'Laughlin and Gregg. Now will the league referee play with the fake team who is so hard up for a name that they must take ours. We will give them a sporting chance if they will take it. We will play for that name and 50 cent ball any time. Signed by manager of the Little League.

The Cloverleaf Juniors have organized for the season and challenge any team from 10 to 12 years preferably the Black Hawks or the Young Cubs. For games telephone to Manager Geo. Deane at 1671 R. or challenge through The Sun baseball column.

How Major Owners Dope Their Chances

By JACOB RUPPERT
President, New York Yankees
I look for another close race in the American league this year, but feel confident that the Yankees will again win out.
The loss of Ruth and Meusel for the first six weeks of the season will, no doubt, hurt our chances somewhat, but our splendid pitching staff should keep us in the race until these players get back in the game.
I look to see all attendance records broken this season, not only because of the closeness of the pennant race, but because of the general improvement in business conditions. The many new minor leagues now being organized show an increased interest and demand for baseball throughout the country.

By C. A. STONEHAM
President, New York Giants
I believe we have a better team than last year, and for that reason think we will again win the National league pennant.
Our club should also surpass last year's attendance records, as we are starting the season with a pennant series of home games as the world champions.
The New York public is sure to support us to the limit, and I think it will last year, when all records for attendance were smashed.
My predictions as to artistic and financial success are, of course, based on the theory that the Giants will maintain the standard we expect them to.

By JAMES C. DUNN
President, Cleveland Indians
In view of the fact that Cleveland finished second last year, despite an unreasonable amount of injury, I am optimistic as to the prospects for the coming season.
The acquisition of McInnis at first base and the signing of Evers at shortstop, I believe, will make us a more formidable team than last year.
I cannot help but believe the Indians are very much a pennant contender.
I look for a good season financially. The corner toward good times has been turned.

By AUGUST HERRMANN
President, Cincinnati Reds
I am sure the Cincinnati Reds will finish the coming season in a higher position than last year.
I do not feel like predicting just where the club will rank at the close of the season, but I prefer to let Manager Moran judge that.
Of one thing, however, I am positive, the Reds are a better ball club than a year ago, and with a team which makes a young team with a record of 100 wins, I look for a great season for all the clubs.
Better times are on the way. Many other reasons could be offered. The financial outlook is bright. The club is devoted to its national sport and will give support to which it is entitled.

By CHAS. A. COMISKY
President, Chicago White Sox
Under the circumstances I am well satisfied with the outlook for the coming season.
I anticipate that Manager Gibson will have the White Sox in good shape. The team made an excellent showing in the exhibition games with the world champion New York Giants.
The club should show a decided improvement over last year, barring baseball accidents.
I shall, under the guidance of Judge Landis, continue to occupy the fitting position that the national game deserves.

By PHIL HALL
President, St. Louis Browns
Our outlook for this coming season is very bright.
I feel that the outlook is very bright for the Browns.
The Cardinals' pitching could be better. Another seasoned pitcher and Rickey would have McGraw very much worried.
Boston and Brooklyn both have strengthened their lineups considerably. While the Pirates on form should finish third, there is a chance that the club that finished second in 1921 may be edged into the second division.
The Pittsburgh catching divers, due to the failure of Schmidt to return, both Boston and Brooklyn have a chance to nose out the Pirates.
If Boston had better pitching I would favor it to top the second division. If Evers and Jones, traded to New York, were with the team I would give the Sox an excellent chance to finish in the first division.
The Boston club can hit. It is going to make a lot of money this summer. However, I can't see the pitching.

Lincoln Life Team New Bowling Champs

"A team of money bowlers."
That is the reputation of the Lincoln Life bowling team of Fort Wayne, Ind., new world's champions.

At a recent bowling tournament held at Toledo, the Lincoln Life quintet won first honors with a score of 2908.

Starting out with 1007, the Fort Wayne bowlers dropped to 940 in the second game. That seemed to put them out of the running. They came back, however, in strong style with 991.

The team was organized five years ago and has been cutting a wide swath in bowling circles ever since. In 1919 they finished third and in 1920 fourth in the national tournament.

The situation with the Cardinals is just the opposite to that of the Pirates.

The Cardinals' pitching could be better. Another seasoned pitcher and Rickey would have McGraw very much worried.

Boston and Brooklyn both have strengthened their lineups considerably. While the Pirates on form should finish third, there is a chance that the club that finished second in 1921 may be edged into the second division.

Evans Predicts How Big League Teams Will Finish

By BILLY EVANS
The team that beats out the New York Yankees in the American league is going to play in the 1922 world series.

The Yankees have pitching, oodles of it, and pitching in the past has always decided pennants.

If given the opportunity to select four pitchers from the entire American league, it would be a difficult problem to get four better men than Mays, Hoyt, Jones and Bush.

Then there is Bob Shawkey, a great pitcher when he is right. Bob, usually a consistent performer, had his good and bad spots last season.

Some of the experts are inclined to think that Bob is through. I don't share that opinion. Shawkey is young, has always taken good care of himself, and should win a lot of ball games for the Yankees this summer.

Yankees Strong Combination
The Yankees were without a good southpaw last year. A left hander, who can deliver, is a very valuable man to any ball club. It looks as if Miller Huggins had acquired such a player in "Lefty" O'Doul.

O'Doul has been the property of the New York Americans for several years. Last season he was sent to the San Francisco club for further seasoning. With that club he won 26 games in the Coast league. He appears to have arrived.

Unless Judge Landis relents the Yankees are going to be minus much of their attack until May 20. That is the release date on the suspension meted out to Babe Ruth and Bob Meusel.

The Yankees are certain to miss the timely swats of these two great batters. However, I am of the opinion that the excellent pitching the Yankees should get will tide them over without having the club suffer any great handicap.

Three Clubs Are Dangerous
The other three berths in the first division will in all probability be occupied by Cleveland, St. Louis and Washington.

Cleveland is an 11 ball club in the American league pennant race. It is a club that has been in the big league every day then one of the big hits will have been recorded.

Speaker's daily presence in the lineup means everything to the chances of the Indians. His leadership and playing strength is needed on the ball field.

If Jim Bagby and Walter Mills prove consistent winners the pitching problem will have been solved. Stanley Coveleski and George Elice can be depended upon for good work.

The Indians have been greatly strengthened by the addition of Stuffy McInnis. He is a great ball player. The outfield will deliver. Steve O'Neill can be depended upon for brilliant work behind the bat.

If these things come true Cleveland should prove a strong contender. However, I think the power of the Yankees and doesn't figure to trim the New York aggregation.

Pitching Is Big Problem
St. Louis and Washington loom up as the other two dangerous factors. Both of these teams will prove formidable. The addition of Beckingbaugh has made the Washington grab. With him at short there is no better infield in either major league.

Here pitching is again the problem. Neither of these clubs appear to have men who were Boston regulars last year, Pratt and Menosky. Two others were Red Sox substitutes a year ago and five came from other clubs.

The Athletics have projected several new faces, and it was announced that "Whitey" Witt was on the market.

The probable batting order: Athletics: 1. Griffith, 2. Sh. Brazill, 3. Smith, 4. Johnston, 5. Walker, 6. Harris, 7. Welch, 8. Pittenger, 9. J. Perkins, 10. O'Rourke, 11. Dicks, 12. Chaplin, 13. Quinn, 14. P. Rommel or Harris.

President Harding at Game
WASHINGTON, April 12.—President Harding will be the guest of honor at the first ball today to start the Nationals and the Yankees on their way in the 1922 championship race.

The game, which will be played at the new stadium, is expected to give away largely to the event of the opening game, with members of the senate and house, high officials of the army and navy, and the cheering throngs.

The weather has promised to improve the occasion with an ideal brand of baseball weather.

The pitcher selections for the opening ball were made by Washington, and Hoyt, the youthful star of the last world's series for New York.

The conspicuous feature of the Yankees' lineup is the absence of the presence of Ruth and Meusel from the outfield. The " Babe" had arranged to stand the excellent from the grandstand.

Braves Play Phillies
PHILADELPHIA, April 12.—The Braves are set and ready for the word "Go!" and they are away in the National league race today.

Physically and mentally the team is in good condition. The whole outfit is confident of the team's ability to hold its own against all comers, that it is well provided with reserve strength and that whatever may be the outcome of the games played early in the season, it will have a clean sweep in the race from start to finish.

Opening in Manhattan
NEW YORK, April 12.—Warm weather but overcast skies ushered in the baseball season of 1922 here today.

Weather forecasts, however, brought cheerless assurance to the fans of Manhattan and Brooklyn that the elements would not mar the big day of the year for those who went to the Polo grounds to see the National league team of the two boroughs battle.

Douglas or Nelt were the pitchers considered as most likely to face the variety of the game, with Hugh Bennett, whose work had shown a remarkable form, was looked upon as the hurler for Brooklyn.

New York's season without the services of Evers, according to the manager, went home from the south with an injured foot, but his place was taken by Hugh Bennett, who played a star game in the first game of the season.

Brooklyn's pitcher, however, was not presented by the manager, but by Hugh, the new Decker shortstop, and Delbert, a catcher new to the Brooklyn uniform, were the strange faces in the outfit commanded by Wilbert Robinson.

The Yankees were in Washington to open the American league season. Hugh Bennett went to the capital city with his teammates but had no hope of getting into the game, as the sentence of suspension passed on him by Judge Landis was still in effect.

Neither manager of the two major league pennant winners of 19
